Fuel Shortage A Factor . . .

Delay In Awarding LES Pact Is Asked

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Although the Lincoln Electric System (LES) has opened four bids on plans to build a $5 million combustion turbine generating unit, LES Administrator Walt Canney told The Star Friday that he has asked for a 30-day delay in awarding the contract.

The plans call for construction of a 50 megawatt (MW) unit on an 80-acre tract three miles south of Lincoln, despite uncertainty of obtaining fuel to operate the engine.

The plant would be operable by April, 1975.

Stressing that the unit is needed to meet the predicted peak loads, Canney admitted he is concerned about the availability of fuel to run the aircraft-like turbine engine.

The turbine will burn No. 2 fuel oil. A 50 MW unit would consume some 3 million gallons per year.

The city's only other similar, unit is a 28 MW turbine located at 8th and J. That unit burns 1.5 million gallons of fuel per year.

Fuel Prices Spiral

In addition to contending with spiraling fuel prices which have doubled from 11 cents a gallon to 22 cents a gallon this year, Assistant Purchasing Agent Gary Kitt pointed out that additional fuel may not be available for the new plant.

Under the federal government's mandatory fuel allocation program, the city's allotment is based on the number of gallons consumed during the corresponding months in 1972. Any new installation, Kitt reported, would be considered a new customer.

"We can't get new fuel unless the government releases the grandfather clause to utilities," he said.

Canney and LES Board Chairman John Haessler are optimistic that the system will be able to secure the needed fuel.

During the past few weeks, Canney said he has been in contact with the state's congressional delegation in an attempt to obtain that fuel.

Additionally, he voiced confidence that the Emergency Energy Act now before the Senate will exempt utiiities from the mandatory allocation system.

'Short Term Shortage'

"I'm confident this is a short term shortage," Canney said, adding, "Our need and that of other utilities will have to be recognized."

Although admitting no one can forecast the energy future, he noted that President Nixon "says we'll be self sufficient by 1980."

Haessler said LES has contacted the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) and Omaha Public Power District officials about obtaining more fuel.

In a letter to NPPD Manager D. W. Hill, Canney asked if the state utility "could evaluate the possibility of allocating fuel in 1975."

No guidelines on building such turbine units have been issued by the newly created Federal Energy Administration.

Jonathan Brown, special consultant to energy czar William E. Simon, told The Star in an interview from Washington, D.C., that he had no specific comments on Lincoln's plans to build the unit.

17½% Shortage Projected

But, Brown pointed out that the energy administration is projecting a 17% shortage in middle distillate fuels for the first quarter of 1974.

Said Brown, "In the long term, I'm sure Simon will be looking at alternatives to using other types of fuels."

He noted that the administration has urged 26 East Coast generating units to convert back to coal. Many of those plants had just recently converted to other types of fuel to meet Environmental Protection Agency requirements.

Canney said the conversion of those plants back to coal "will release a lot of oil now tied up."

Lincoln's proposed turbine cannot be converted to use coal since, as Brown described the unit," it's like an aircraft engine strapped to the ground so the City of Lincoln won't take off, but energy will."

Minimal Period

Such a turbine has the capacity to generate within a minimal period of time enough energy to meet peak loads.

Canney explained that the turbine can go from zero to full capacity within ten minutes. It takes coal operated plants 24 hours to fire up the same amount of energy to meet a similar peak load condition.

Haessler said that while the LES Board is not formally re-evaluating the project, members have been apprised of the fuel oil dilemma.

He said he was sure the board would not proceed with the project unless the necessary fuel could be obtained.

In the meantime, Canney has notified bidders that the city will wait 30 days before awarding the contract.

The base bids ranged from $3.2 million for a 44 MW unit to $6.1 million for a 72 MW unit.

The bidders are Turbo Power & Marine, Farmington, Conn.; Westinghouse Electric, Omaha; General Electric, Kansas City; and Curtiss-Wright Corp., Des Plaines, Ill.

Students Design Containers To Throw Eggs Off Roof In

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

It may not be all that unusual to associate eggs and cereal with early morning activities.

But to put the two ingredients together and drop them from a rooftop in the early hours is surely another matter!

Yet that's exactly what two Capital City youngsters did — all in the name of science, of course.

The unusual experiment was the work of Dean Molzer and Roy Allder, two students of Southeast High industrial arts teacher Bob Hall.

Hall, who says he likes to combine book work with occasional activities that "whet the architectural appetite," asked his drawing students to design a cube which could withstand a fall from the Southeast High roof without breaking a raw egg inside.

4 x 4-Inch Cubes

His energetic students devised a host of the 4- by 4-inch cubes to meet the challenge.

One hid the egg within layer after tiny layer of fiberglass. Another built a wooden block and plopped the egg inside.

But when the great day for the experiment arrived, only three of the small boxes withstood the 30-foot drop from the top of the building to the concrete below.

And all three were among the simplest designs tested.

Molzer and Allder hid their egg in a pasteboard cube filled with puffed rice, and the cereal provided the flexibility necessary to keep the egg intact.

Allder said he even "jumped on it first" to find out how much of a jolt the box would stand.

Foam Insulation

Student Chuck Savage used two chemicals which, when combined, produce a foam insulation of the kind used in railroad boxcars. It too proved flexible enough.

In fact, it was so lightweight, it "floated down," he said.

Bruce Dahlberg made a simple cardboard criss-cross and suspended the egg in the center. "I wanted something to support a little weight and survive the shock from hitting the ground," he explained.

Hall said the only rules were ones which limited the size of the cube, outlawed metal in the construction and insisted on use of a raw hen's egg.

"Anyone had the right to examine the egg," he said, to insure against architectural skullduggery. He also noted, in defense of those who built hardier boxes, that he had suggested he might drive a car over them.

Next time, he said, maybe he'll make breakfast depend on the survival of the eggs. That would probably produce a couple of dozen boxes whose only difference was the kind of breakfast cereal used.

Position Given To U.S., Russia

. . . Conference Has Priority

©The New York Times

Cairo — Egypt has decided to attend a Middle East peace conference in Geneva Dec. 18, even in the absence of a prior Israeli troop withdrawal to the cease-fire line of Oct. 22, informed diplomats said Friday.

The Egyptian position has been communicated to the Soviet Union and the United States, the diplomats said.

Thus, Egypt is giving precedence to the Geneva conference, which is intended to deal with the problems of a long-range Arab-Israeli settlement, over the military talks on the Cairo-Suez road which were to deal primarily with immediate military issues.

Egypt suspended the military talks Nov. 29 in protest over an Israeli refusal to withdraw her forces on the west bank of the Suez Canal toward the cease-fire line.

More Pressure

Egypt will refuse to resume the military talks before the Geneva conference, it was understood, because she feels that in the absence of additional pressure, Israel is not likely to make any initial withdrawal. The Egyptians hope that the Geneva talks and the Middle East trip of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger just prior to the conference will generate such pressure on Israel.

In the meantime, diplomats here feel that the cease-fire on Israel's extended front lines with Egyptian and Syrian forces remains extremely fragile. Major new fighting could break out at any moment at least until the start of the Geneva conference, it is felt.

There has been a growing number of incidents involving planes, artillery, tanks and infantry in what one source here called a new "miniwar of attrition."

International officials believe that the clashes are "controlled" — that is, they are deliberate military acts by the two high commands and not angry outbursts by local commanders.

Egypt's decision to attend the Geneva conference, even in the absence of a prior Israeli withdrawal, concludes a lively internal debate among government officials here.

One group of officials and journalists argued that Egypt should leave difficult immediate problems such as the Israeli positions alone and plung straight forward to the great over-all issues of peace.

These officials argued that the problem of Israeli withdrawal from the west bank of the canal would become academic sooner or later since there could be no negotiated settlement without an eventual Israeli withdrawal from all Egyptian territory.

Other officials, journalists and officers argued, however, that Egypt should not go to Geneva as long as Israel had not proved a "willingness to live up to international agreements" by implementing the Security Council cease-fire resolutions of Oct. 22 and 23 and carrying out a withdrawal to the lines of Oct. 22 under the six-point agreement signed by Egypt and Israel Nov. 11.

Man Holding Girl Sought Near Mitchell

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)— Law enforcment authorities Friday night launched a search in the Mitchell area for an armed man who is holding a girl as a hostage.

The Scotts Bluff County sheriff's office said Jerry Bellvin, 22, of Gering, stole a car in Gering Friday evening and abducted three children from their home in Gering.

Authorities said two of the children — Ken Murphy, 10, and Bill Murphy, 15 — later either escaped or were set free.

However, authorities said their sister Bonnie was with Bellvin on foot west of Mitchell where he abandoned the car.

Authorities said Bellvin was armed with a shotgun, a rifle and a knife.

Woman Is Arrested In Baby Abandoning

A woman in her early 20's was in the custody of the State Patrol Friday afternoon in connection with the alleged abandonment of a premature infant in the State Capitol, according to Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas.

Douglas said child abandonment charges would probably be filed against the woman Monday. He said the patrol arrested the woman Friday at her home.

The baby girl was found at 3:30 Thursday afternoon wrapped in towels and lying on a couch in a first-floor restroom at the State Capitol by a state employe.

According to official reports, a state employe said a woman carrying a bundle in her arms asked where the restroom was located at about 3 p.m. Thursday. The employe told authorities she thought she heard a baby cry.

The little girl, who weighs about three pounds, was listed in "good" condition Friday in the neo-natal unit at St. Elizabeth Health Center.

Stern Energy Measures Called For

Washington (UPI) — Calling on the administration to yield to gasoline rationing and sterner energy measures, a congressional study Friday warned Americans to brace for "the most grievous shortages ever experienced in this country."

The study, prepared by the Senate Interior Committee, said the oil shortage this winter will be far more severe than the administration anticipates — possibly as much as 5 million barrels a day — and threatens both the economy and the national security.

It called for strict gasoline rationing "at once," immediate regulations to further increase heating oil refining and other mandatory steps to increase energy savings.

The administration meanwhile showed no signs of yielding to pressure for immediate rationing. Following on the heels of estimates that rationing could not be imposed until March 1 at the earliest, Chairman Herbert L. Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers indicated again that he prefers to allow gasoline prices to increase.

The House Commerce Committee voted 24 to 13 to send to the floor the national emergency energy act, which would give President Nixon broad powers to converve the nation's energy supplies. Rationing is optional in both the House bill and a similar one passed earlier by the Senate.

In other energy related developments:

—The American Trucking Association urged the government to give truckers a fuel allocation which would meet 100% of their current needs. The present allocation proposal would give them a 90% allocation effective Dec. 27.

—The Senate voted 82-0 to commit the United States to a $20 billion energy research and development program to make the country self-sufficient within the next decade. The measure was sent to the House.

—The Associated General Contractors complained that proposed rules for allocating diesel fuel would cut back construction activity by 20% and put a million building tradesmen out of work.

—The Association of American Railroads filed a statement with the Energy Policy Office urging that railroads be allocated enough fuel to meet all their needs.

—The Agriculture Department reported that supplies of farm gasoline and diesel fuel remained tight this week, partly because most oil companies reportedly are still not following federal instructions to give farmers priority in diesel deliveries.

—Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger of health, education and welfare recommended to the White House Energy Office that elementary and high schools be required to lower temperatures 6 degrees from last year's heating levels instead of the previously proposed 10 degrees.

—Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the energy crisis could be solved by removing all price controls on fuels and imposing a stiff excess profits tax on the oil industry. He said he is opposed to rationing or an increased tax on gasoline.

—Despite the fuel shortage and a cutback of some 1,000 flights, the Air Transport Association said the nation's airlines expect to carry more than 8 million passengers over the Christmas holidays.

The Senate Interior Committee's analysis said that is Nixon's energy program is fully effective, shortages of at least 1.6 million to 2 million barrels will persist daily throughout the winter. It added that the shortage could reach 3.4 million barrels a day by early February and 5 million by spring.

"It seems clear that under any set of circumstances which does not include an immediate resumption of the flow of Arab oil, the United States must anticipate the most grievous shortages ever experienced," the study said.

"The extent of the shortages and the threat they pose to the economy and to the national security exceed by far any savings resulting from measures taken to date."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., committee chairman, said the study "makes it clear that the administration must not only face up to the need for immediate gasoline rationing, but must also take urgent steps to reduce the drawdown of inventories now taking place."

Checks Said Counterfeits

Counterfeit travelers checks allegedly have been passed in Seward, Wahoo and Fremont, according to information given to the Lincoln Better Business Bureau by a New York bank.

The First National City Bank in New York City said $50 and $100 counterfeit travelers checks have been passed on the bank's name, Lois Tefft of the Better Business Bureau said.

The checks are lighter green in color than the legal ones, and have a slightly different texture, Miss Tefft said. They are supposed to have been passed by two men and one woman who are hitting small towns and the smaller businesses in them, she said.

She said there is no way of knowing how many checks have been passed. The serial numbers on the $50 checks are 669775220 and 221; and on the $100 checks, 425275084 and 085.

Truckers Win Concession

By The Associated Press

Protesting truckers won their first government concessions on Friday, prompting their leaders to call for an end to threats of renewed highway blockades.

The Interstate Commerce Commission announced in Washington it would speed up its rate-making process to let truckers quickly pass increased fuel costs on to shippers.

And President Nixon scheduled a Saturday morning meeting with Frank Fitzsimmons, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Both moves came after some truckers had threatened to end a moratorium on road blockages should negotiations in Washington fail to settle demands that included lower fuel costs and higher speed limits.

"We don't see any reason for a shutdown now," said one of the leaders who had gone to Washington for meetings with government officials, "We're going back to our units tonight and start hauling."

Some meetings between truck drivers and government agencies were still underway late Friday.

ICC Chairman George Stafford said the ICC probably would shorten the time period for filing notice of rate changes from the present 30 to 45 day period to 10 days.

Such a change would mean truckers could put new hauling rates into effect 10 days after giving notice to the ICC to cover increasing fuel costs, a major complaint of drivers.

The ICC announcement came after Stafford and others met with two groups representing independent truck drivers.

Egypt Decides To Attend Middle East Conference

(c) New York Times News Service

Cairo — Egypt has decided to attend the Middle East peace conference opening in Geneva Dec. 18 even in the absence of a prior Israeli troop withdrawal from the Suez area, diplomats in Cairo said. The United States and the Soviet Union have been told of Egypt's decision, they said. Egypt, it was understood, will not resume the suspended military talks with Israel, in which Israel's withdrawal to the ceasefire lines of Oct. 22 is at issue, before the Geneva conference. (More on Page 1.)

House GOPs Elect Rhodes Leader

Washington — For the first time in recent memory, House Republicans changed leaders without a fight and elected Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona to succeed Vice President Ford as minority leader. (More on Page 2.)

Energy Search Bill OKd

Washington — The Senate, voting 82 to 0, passed a bill calling for a ten-year research and development program to find ways that will make the United States self-sufficient in sources of energy. The bill authorizes spending $20 billion on the effort, largely exclusive of nuclear energy development, and differs sharply from the administration's proposals on the same subject.

Nixon Won't Resign, Ford Says

Washington — Vice President Ford said President Nixon told him he has no intention of resigning. "I can assure you that the President has no intention whatever of resigning," Ford said. He predicted Nixon would be exonerated when all the facts become known. (More on Page 2.)

Vesco Escapes Extradition

Nassau, The Bahamas — Robert L. Vesco, the self-exiled financier, won a month-long fight to prevent extradition to the United States from Nassau. A Bahamian court ruled that the wire fraud charge on which Vesco was indicted in New York was not an extraditable offense.

Kissinger Starts Goodwill Trip

Washington — Secretary of State Kissinger left Friday for a two-week trip to Europe and the Middle East to smooth relations with America's traditional allies and to encourage Israel and the Arab states to engage in a meaningful dialogue for peace. He will visit 11 countries — five in Europe and six in the Middle East. (More on Page 2.)

Unemployment Rate Bobs Up

Washington — The nation's unemployment rate, after a dip in October, returned in November to the level that had prevailed since last spring, the Labor Department reported. The November rate was 4.7% of the labor force, up from 4.5% in October. The rise, government spokesmen said, had nothing to do with the oil shortage. (More on Page 3.)

N.Y. Banks Up Prime Rate To 10%

New York — Several major banks, led by the First National City Bank, New York's largest, announced increases in the prime rate to 10%, and a few hours later the Federal Reserve Board made a move apparently designed to offset the trend. The board reduced its marginal reserve requirements on large-denomination certificates of deposit to 8% from 11%. (More on Page 3.)

Ford Says Nixon Not Republican Albatross

World News

Washington (AP) — Gerald R. Ford embarked on his vice presidency Friday with a firm defense of President Nixon and a rejection of suggestions Nixon has become a political liability for Republicans.

He spent part of the day fulfilling his constitutional duty of presiding over the Senate, part on his new responsibilities and part in seeking to quell speculation he might soon have to take over from the Watergate-weakened President.

"I don't think there is any possible prospect" of that, Ford told reporters during a late-morning photo session outside the Senate. "I just took this job today and I don't think I ought to talk about another."

Several hours later, after a 45-minute White House meeting with Nixon, the new vice president told a formal news conference "the President has no intention whatsoever of resigning."

As for the impeachment proceedings already under way in the House, Ford said these would continue. "I see no evidence whatever," he added, "that would justify a favorable vote in the House of Representatives" on an impeachment resolution.

He said he expects Nixon to release full details of his personal finances and his role in the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. and milk fund cases by the end of December.

"When all of the facts are out," Ford said, "he did assure me he will be completely exonerated, there will be no fair charges of involvement."

Ford also said:

— He will preside over the National Security Council and the Domestic Council in Nixon's absence, has been given an office on the House side of the Capitol and will perform the same political role as have other vice presidents.

— He plans to stick close to Congress until the present session ends and has "no plans at this point for any overseas travel."

— He accepted the somewhat ceremonial though potentially important post as vice president because "I wanted to help in any way I could the President and the administration and, to that extent, the country."

— "I don't think the President is a political liability to any candidate" and that if any Republican congressman or senator could have Nixon appear in his district or state, "almost without exception they would be glad to have him."

Rhodes Won't Urge Resignation

Washington (AP) — Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, elected by acclamation Friday as House minority leader, said he would not now join any move by Republicans in Congress to urge President Nixon to resign.

But Rhodes said, "The Republican party in my opinion — and the Democratic party for that matter — should recognize the resurgence in Congress and should become congressional parties."

Rhodes told a news conference he had given this advice to his party colleagues at the Republican conference where he was elected without opposition to fill the leadership post Gerald R. Ford left to become vice president.

Rhodes said that to ask Nixon now to resign would be to prejudge the questions of Watergate and related scandals.

"I wouldn't be a party to it . . ." he said. "It would not be the American way of doing things."

He said the House is the only tribunal in which the matter can be cleared up and that he is glad its Judiciary Committee is making an inquiry as to whether there are grounds for impeachment.

"Naturally I hope the committee will not vote an impeachment resulution and if it does I hope it will be defeated," he said.

He said he hopes the committee will be "thorough and as rapid as it can be consistent with thoroughness, and by this process we can clear up Watergate once and for all."

Recession Feared

Atlanta (UPI) — Georgia Labor Commissioner Sam Caldwell, alarmed by rising unemployment, predicted the energy crisis was pushing the state toward "the most severe recession of our time."

Kissinger Embarks Today On Mideast, European Trip

©The New York Times

Washington — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger leaves Saturday on a two-week trip to Europe and the Middle East to smooth relations with America's traditional allies and to encourage Israel and the Arab states to talk seriously about peace.

On the eve of Kissinger's visit to 11 countries — five in Europe and six in the Middle East — a senior State Department official made no effort to disguise the serious problems that have arisen within the Atlantic Alliance in what the administration once called hopefully "the Year of Europe."

But he stressed to newsmen that Kissinger "wants to look ahead rather than concentrate on the past" in his discussions at the meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers in Brussels, where he arrives Saturday night, and in London Tuesday. He plans a major speech in London Wednesday night.

Kissinger spent his last day in Washington concentrating on Middle East problems, in advance of his scheduled tour of the area, from next Thursday through Dec. 17. Then he plans to go to Geneva for the expected start the next day of the Middle East peace conference between Israel and at least three Arab states, Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

He met twice at the State Department with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who later told newsmen that Israel would take a "forthcoming" attitude at the Geneva talks, as long as there is "give and take" between the parties.

Kissinger also welcomed Ashraf Abdel Latis Ghorbal, the new Egyptian ambassador, to lay the groundwork for his visit to Cairo next Thursday.

In Egypt, Kissinger will discuss with President Anwar El-Sadat the problems caused by the failure of Israel and Egypt to agree on new cease-fire lines, and to urge Egypt to take a constructive attitude at Geneva.

Kissinger's aides said they also expected him to urge the Israeli government to remain flexible when he arrives in Tel Aviv Dec. 16 after visiting Saudi Arabia, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon.

Aides said his talks with King Fiasal in Saudi Arabia would focus on ways to lift the Arab oil embargo against the U.S. Kissinger prepared for those talks Thursday night an unpublicized meeting at the State Department with Sheik Ahmed Zaki Al-Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, whom he also saw Wednesday.

3 Nebraskans Vote For Ford

Washington (AP) — Reps. Charles Thone, John McCollister and Dave Martin, all Nebraska Republicans, voted for confirmation of Gerald Rudolph Ford as vice president.

Ex-Nixon Helper Pleads Innocent

Washington (AP) — Dwight L. Chapin, a worker in Nixon election campaigns since 1962 and a top first-term aide, pleaded innocent in federal court Friday to charges that he lied to a Watergate grand jury.

His trial is scheduled to start Feb. 19.

The 33-year-old Chapin, on leave from United Air Lines where he is director of market planning, is charged with four counts of making false declaration before a grand jury — an indictment akin to perjury.

Chapin was assistant to the President from the beginning of the first Nixon administration until his resignation on Feb. 28. In effect, he was Nixon's appointment's secretary and his chief advance man for important trips, including the visit to China last year.

Chapin recommended the hiring of Donald H. Segretti, a young California lawyer and chum at the University of Southern California, in the 1972 presidential campaign.

Ostensibly Segretti was employed to play practical jokes and pranks on other candidates. But his work led to excesses and eventually to Segretti's conviction on a guilty plea to three federal misdemeanor counts of campaign violations. Segretti is serving a 6-month term at a minimum security installation in Lompoc, Calif.

Tall, with movie-star good looks, Chapin testified on April 11, 1973, before the grand jury. It was then, the indictment alleges, that Chapin lied about the following.

— That he told Segretti to cooperate with the FBI.

— That he didn't know about, nor discussed, distribution of campaign literature by Segretti.

— That he could not recall ever giving Segretti directions or instructions 'with respect to any single or particular candidate.

— That he never knew what Segretti was paid, except from what he read in the Newspapers.

The indictment says after each count that Chapin "then and there well knew" his statements were false. Each count is punishable by up to 5 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

House Clears Way For Saxbe To Be Named

Washington (UPI) — The House voted Friday to lower the attorney general's salary by $25,000 a year, clearing the way for President Nixon to nominate Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, for the job.

There was no immediate indication from the White House when the Saxbe nomination would be sent to the Senate.

The salary reduction bill would allow Saxbe to circumvent a constitutional provision prohibiting him from taking an office for which he voted a salary increase during the same congressional term.

Judge Rejects Vesco Extradition

Nassau, Bahamas (UPI) — A Bahamian judge ruled Friday that financier Robert Vesco may not be extradited to the United States to answer a fraud charge.

Magistrate Emmanuel Osadebay ruled that the counsel of the U.S. government had not proven that the charge against Vesco is extraditable under the existing extradition treaty.

Vesco was charged with fraudulently transferring $50,000 from the International Controls Corp. to a Bahamian comapny for his own use. He controlled both firms.

No. 2 Bank Sets 10% Prime Rate

. . Reserve Requirements Cut

New York (AP) — New York's First National City Bank boosted its prime lending rate to 10 per cent Friday, indicating that despite the oil crisis, industry is expanding at a record pace, economists said.

But they said a slowdown is expected once the full force of the energy crunch hits, followed perhaps by an easing of the prime rate.

Following similar moves by several other banks, the federal Reserve Board announced in Washington Friday that it was reducing reserve requirements banks must maintain against deposits. The action was expected to result in a reduction of interest rates.

A government official said that the timing of the Fed action was directly related to the rise in the prime rate Friday.

The Fed said the action was taken in recognition of an easing demand by companies for loans.

Nevertheless private economists said corporate demand for loans was still running very high.

Earlier in the day, the ¼ per cent upward move by Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, quickly was duplicated by Bankers Trust Co. and several other major commercial banks.

However, Bank of America, the nation's largest bank said it would try to hold its prime at 9¾ per cent.

The prime rate is the base lending rate banks charge their largest corporate customers. Consumer and small business rates are set separately, but they generally follow the ups and downs of the prime rate.

"Citibank's move is highly significant since their prime is based on a formula derived from money market conditions in general," said Raymond DeVoe, vice president of Spencer Trask, a Wall Street firm. "It means that there still is high demand for corporate loans."

"This suggests that the economy is still quite strong," said an economist for another firm. "I believe, however, that it's not going to stay that way."

Economists said that the prime rate frequently reflects the rate of the nation's growth, and the level of wholesale prices.

"Thus earlier this year we had a food inflation and interest rates went up with it. Now we have a fuel inflation and the same thing is happening," said William Wolman, an economist with the New York-based economic research firm of Argus Research.

The government announced Thursday that large increases in November wholesale prices pushed up primarily be increasing petroleum prices.

Economists said unprecedented demand by corporations for loans for expansion had been the main factor sending the prime rate soaring to record levels this year as funds became scarcer.

Another important factor, they said, was attempts by the Federal Reserve Board of dampen rapid expansion by keeping the nation's money supply tight.

The prime began the year at 6 per cent, climbed by September to 10 per cent, eased off to 9½ per cent in October and then began moving up again. The record high before this year was 8½ per cent.

House OKs Bill For Military Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $2.7 billion military construction appropriation bill including $12 million to move a controversial Navy firing range off the Puerto Rican island of Culebra passed the House Friday.

The $2.7 billion appropriation is for U. S. military construction at installations worldwide for the fiscal year that started last July 1.

President Nixon originally asked $2.9 billion, the House approved $2.6 billion and the Senate approved $2.7 billion before conferees agreed on the $2.7 billion.

3 Nebraskans Back Defense Building Bill

Washington (UPI) — Nebraska's three Republican representatives, John McCollister, Charles Thone and David Martin, voted with the majority Friday as the House voted 329 to 40 to pass a compromise $2.6 billion military construction appropriation bill.

Gasoline Not A Worry Just Hay

Geoff Morton isn't worried about the energy crisis. He has real, live, five horsepower at work on his farm at Holme Upon Spalding Moor in Yorkshire, North England. The horses pull a twin share American gang plow. As a "horse only" farmer, Morton doesn't fear the gasoline problems his neighbors face.

Unemployment Rate Is 4.7%

©The New York Times

Washington — The nation's unemployment rate, after a dip in October, returned in November to the level that had prevailed since last spring, the Labor Department reported Friday.

The November rate was 4.7% of the labor force, up from 4.5% in October. The rise, according to official spokemen, had nothing to do with the oil shortage, which had had no effect on jobs by early November, when the labor force survey was taken.

The two measures of total employment published each month showed differing results for November.

The household sample survey showed essentially no change in total jobs after a strong increase in the two preceding months. Reports from employers on their payroll employment showed an increase in jobs of 200,000.

The two measures have different coverage and, while they invariably move in the same direction over an extended period of time, they can diverge in a single month.

In general, Friday's report pictured an economy holding steady in November at a high level of activity and employment, though the unemployment figures are universally expected to worsen in 1974 as a result of the energy shortage and other factors.

The number of unemployed in November was 4.3 million, up 200,000 from November. There was an increase in the unemployment rate for adult women, which rose to 4.7% from 4.4% in October. The November rate for women was in line with the figures that had prevailed for most of this year with the exception of October.

Slightly more than half of the unemployed in November had been out of work for less than five weeks. Only one-fifth of them had been out of work for 15 weeks or more. The average duration of unemployment was 10.1 weeks, little changed from other recent months.

The unemployment rate for blacks last month was reported at 9.1%, more than double the rate for whites of 4.2%, but down from 10.1% a year earlier.

The average workweek and average overtime in manufacturing were unchanged from October. The index of hourly earnings of production and other nonsupervisory workers edged up by 0.3% but was a relatively modest 6.7% above a year earlier — not as much as the rise in prices during that period.

TWA Says 350 Additional Pilots Will Be Laid Off

©The New York Times

New York — Trans World Airlines, which has been shut down by a strike of attendants since Nov. 5, announced Friday that 350 additional pilots would be laid off beginning in January because fuel shortages would require fewer flights when the strike ended. In late October, the line said it was "furloughing" 100 of its 3,800 pilots.

The new TWA layoffs will bring to more than 1,400 the number of pilot jobs to be eliminated by the nation's airlines because of fuel shortages.

In Washington, negotiations continued between TWA and the Transport Workers Union, which represents the more than 5,000 stewards and stewardesses who are on strike.

Aluminum Penny Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Mary L. Brooks, head of the U.S. Mint, announced Friday the mint probably will begin making pennies out of aluminum instead of copper by mid-1974, if Congress approves.

She also revealed she would like to have authority to mint a two and one-half cent piece, but that a major drawback has been the selection of someone's picture to put on it.

Legislation to authorize the switch to aluminum pennies was sent to Congress Friday.

Copper pennies would continue in circulation even after production of aluminum pennies is initiated. There are estimated to be about 34 billion copper pennies in circulation, with about 7 billion new pennies produced each year.

Mrs. Brooks said the government faces a crisis situation in penny production because the high cost of copper threatens to make the penny more expensive to produce than it is worth. The mint already has coined some sample aluninum pennies which are about 70 per cent lighter than copper pennies but the same size and with the same detail, including the picture of President Lincon

Expert Says 8% Of Oil Is Wasted

©The New York Times

Los Angeles — American industry could save the energy equivalent of more than 1.5 million barrels of oil a day — over 8% of current national consumption — in fuel that is largely being wasted, according to an authoritative advisory organization.

The estimate comes from the E.I. DuPont de Nemours Company, the nation's largest chemical concern, on the basis of its experience in consultative engineering work for some 110 other industrial establishments.

Conservation of power in industrial processes is an area that has been touched on little in proposals for ameliorating the energy shortage.

"Experience leads us to conclude that a significant conservation effort at an industrial plant will, on average, result in a 15% reduction in the plant's total energy usage," said David H. Dawson, the recently retired executive vice president of DuPont.

"This factor, if applied to the energy used by all of industry in 1970, indicates a potential energy savings equal to about 1.5 million barrels of oil a day — a saving in energy costs of close to $2 billion a year."

Conservation methods include eliminating excessive "safety margins" in power supply to particular processes.

One refinery, Dawson said, discovered that ordinary steam leaks were costing it $500,000 a year. Another plant was shown how it could expand its capacity without installing a planned $1.2 million boiler.

The DuPont Co., he said, had doubled its production, in physical volume, between 1962 and 1971 with only a 50% increase in energy use.

James Moore, an official of the company's energy management services division, explained that some years back DuPont had initiated a detailed examination of its energy use — which runs $142 million a year — and had developed "techniques we think are unique" that had proved applicable in numerous other industries.

"One of the most frequent kinds of waste is simply unnecessary margins of supply. Where a 400-horsepower motor will do a job, it's common to put in a 500 or 600-horsepower unit 'to be on the safe side.' Where 200 pounds of steam pressure is used, maybe 160 pounds will do the same job . . ." Moore said

Among DuPont's first 91 outside client industrial establishments, Dawson reported, fuel conservation measures produced economies aggregating $13 million a year — the dollar equivalent of around 40,000 barrels of oil.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The CBS special Thursday night on The Corporation left one with mixed emotions. It left this writer eternally grateful that he has not ended up with some giant firm such as Phillips, the subject of the CBS special.

That, of course, is a matter of personal preference and says nothing disparaging about Phillips. The personally bothersome thing is the degree of individual conformity to the corporation that is demanded by Phillips, something we had been led to believe was no longer such a prominent part of big corporation affairs.

But with Phillips, the message came through that the company was first and the individual second, including moral standards. And it is the element of things that is disturbing even from an impersonal point of view because it may reflect upon some of the problems that the nation has today.

The mix of emotions comes from the corresponding fact that such corporations are and must be motivated by a profit incentive. This, in fact, is an important element in the current energy shortage that afflicts the nation.

We have been as bothered as the next guy by reports of production cutbacks by big oil companies during the past year and other things that indicate the companies might well have done considerably more than they have to avert the shortage. At the same time, we have to recognize the claim of many oil spokesmen that government price controls have had a devastating effect upon the industry.

These controls are said to have discouraged expanded exploration and refining on the grounds that there was not sufficient economic motivation for them. This same point was made by leading Phillips executives in their interviews with CBS.

★

When these executives talked about the essential aspects of profit making, we imagine they incurred the wrath of a lot of viewers. There is a substantial feeling of animosity in this country, it seems, to the idea of making a profit.

We would not seek to judge the merits of the Phillips position, but we do agree that it has to make a profit and that such is the fundamental basis of our free enterprise system. It would be a sad mistake for the American people to get so hung up on this subject that they discarded this concept.

The day they throw the profit motive out, that is the day the free enterprise system will go down the drain. As in all things, however, there are degrees.

A legitimate profit is one thing and excessive profits are another. One wonders if a legitimate profit still cannot be made without the concept of corporate infallibility as it seems to be practiced by Phillips.

★

We, quite frankly, would not personally subscribe to the free enterprise system if it demanded that the individual and his personal convictions be assigned a secondary role in things. Democracy is based on the supremacy of the individual and that includes the free enterprise system.

Many of the difficulties we are now experiencing stem from the fact that worthy individuals have sold themselves out for the sake of something they came to hold in higher esteem than their own integrity. The idea, the individual or the institution that demands of you something that you really are not is simply wrong.

The Phillips story seemed to be a callous one in this regard, one that cared too little about individual freedom and morality and about the nation of which that company is a part. One wonders if Phillips would grant that its own survival is dependent upon the survival of the nation.

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

Nixon White House Using Whig Tactics

WASHINGTON — Republicans concerned that their Watergate-besmirched party may be going the way of the Whigs should note with some distress the White House's plan to run ex-Vietnam prisoners of war as GOP candidates in the 1974 elections. One example is Lt. Col. Leo Thorsness, whom the President hopes to match against South Dakota's George McGovern.

My objection has nothing to do with the personal qualities of Colonel Thorsness. He may be a combination of Churchill, Voltaire and Stonewall Jackson, and if he can effectively label George McGovern as the latter-day Lord Haw-Haw of the Hog Belt, fine and dandy. But the basic White House pattern of recruiting celebrities as political candidates deserves careful scrutiny as yet another discouraging example of kinship between the 19th Century Whigs and 20th Century Nixonians.

Simply put, the Whigs were an unphilosophic party that fell apart during the 1850's as the great issues of the Civil War came into focus. Financial- and mercantile-based opponents of Jacksonian Democracy, the Whigs generally lacked any fundamental cause beyond winning office and protecting their interests. To this end, they ardently recruited celebrity candidates — heroes, generals and the like — who could enlarge the usual Whig minority at the polls.

Their must notable success came in 1840, with General William Henry Harrison, nicknamed "Old Tippecanoe" (after the 1813 Indian battle of that name). Harrison won; so did the next Whig military hero, Mexican War General Zachary Taylor ("Old Rough and Ready"), in 1848. By way of contrast, the great Whig politicians — Henry Clay and Daniel Webster — never made it to the White House.

The Nixon White House shares this tactical Whiggery. For example, besides Thorsness, the Administration has played around with two different Vietnamese war heroes as possible GOP candidates in South Carolina: returned POW J. Quincy Collins and former Army General William Westmoreland. Back in 1970, the White House's first choice as a Massachusetts Senate opponent for Edward Kennedy was — believe it or not — cartoonist Al Capp, the creator of "L'il Abner." For awhile, White House aides were talking about youthful N.Y. Congressman Jack Kemp, a former quarterback for the Buffalo Bills, as a 1974 Republican primary opponent for Senator Jacob Javits. In Tennessee, the Administration briefly sought to recruit singer Johnny Cash. And so forth.

White House watchers know that the Nixon people have an inordinate taste for celebrities, sometimes measuring their political standing by such indices as the number of Hollywood stars at a rally (or hugs from a Sammy Davis, Jr.). Such externally directed behavior is at odds with internalized commitment to a definite philosophy and domestic program. A pompous phrase, but appropriate.

Back in 1971, John Ehrlichman, then chief of domestic policy, told me flat out that the Administration didn't want to be trapped into embracing any particular philosophy. Shades of the Whigs! Ehrlichman might have been Nicholas Biddle, Harrison's 1840 campaign manager, telling party strategists to muzzle old Tippecanoe: "Let him not say a single word about his principles or his creed — let him say nothing, promise nothing. Let the use of pen and ink be wholly forbidden."

Republicans will find the Whig analogy disturbing. It suggests that the circa 1973 GOP, like the Whig Party of the 1850's, has lost capacity for forward motion. If this sounds drastic, I mean it to sound that way. Drastic thoughts are in order.

'Well, Boss, Nobody Can Say You're Incapable Of Leading'

University At Crossroads

Looking back upon the past five years, since the University of Nebraska came to include the campus at Omaha, President D. B. Varner now lays the future of the institution in the lap of the Gods, so to speak. Those charged with the administration of the university, he believes, have by now done all they can toward their goal of excellence.

Whether that goal is reached now depends, he maintains, upon the priorities set by the leaders of the state. This basically means that things now are up to the governor and the Legislature.

There is, as Varner said, sufficient ability in this state to support a first class university if such is the objective of the people and their political leaders. In saying this, however, you are also saying that no such objective has been apparent to date.

The plain and simple truth is that not enough funds have been appropriated for the university to allow it to rise any in the academic scheme of things. From an overall point of view, the university is probably no better or worse now than it was five years ago, with the possible exception of the Omaha campus.

That campus has at least been rescued from certain death by its federation or merger with Lincoln, whichever term you want to use.

Restructuring of the university in various regards has now been completed but this has only laid the groundwork for future improvement. In the end, tax funds must be appropriated to provide the physical plant and faculty that are essential to a high level of academic performance.

There is really nothing very complicated about all this but it seems to defy widespread understanding. We believe that the people of Nebraska want a university of excellence and that they can afford it.

It is now up to the university administration and the political leadership of the state to bring such excellence into clear perspective and to provide the means for its achievement. This certainly will not be done through tightfisted budget procedures.

Devil Calling The Shots?

"Operation Candor," President Nixon's late-blooming effort to restore public confidence, has taken a nosedive.

Now offered to the court and the public, after all the other unbelievable explanations about what happened to the missing tapes and parts of pertinent conversations, is Gen. Alexander Haig's "devil theory" which assumes that "some sinister source" may have caused 13 minutes of the 18-minute buzz that drowns out a Nixon-Haldeman conversation about Watergate.

Gen. Haig, the President's top aide, told Judge Sirica Thursday that such talk was circulating among White House staff members. The President's legal staff told him, Haig said, that tests they made Nov. 20th convinced them at that time "that the machine used by Miss Woods could not have made the tones . . . That therefore suggested that some sort of outside energy force had been applied to the tape. I refer to that as the devil theory today."

He might as well have told the judge that the devil made her do it.

The White House, apparently having exhausted its meager supply of credible explanations, is threatening the public with the specter of black magic, as if we Americans were an isolated tribe of simple innocents who would believe anything the agents of the god in Washington told them.

How long can an otherwise trusting people put up with it?

TOM WICKER

Nixon And Ford

NEW YORK — The confirmation of Gerald Ford as Vice President of the United States was the last necessary step to make possible the removal of Richard Nixon from the presidency. Whether or not that removal now takes place, it has become at least a live and "thinkable" possibility.

Gerald Ford, above all, is a conservative Republican, whose accession to the presidency could not do violence to the voters' overwhelming mandate of 1972. He is, moreover, generally considered — and investigation has confirmed that he is — an honest, reputable, decent man renowned for precisely the kind of political civility and institutional deference most needed to redeem the Nixonian depredations on government legitimacy. For both reasons, Ford, as president, would be considerably more of an asset to his party and to its 1974 candidates — particularly its incumbents — than a tarnished Richard Nixon ever again can be.

With Ford officially designated as the constitutional successor, Republican pressures on Nixon to clear himself and his presidency surely will become more severe. It is not hard to imagine a committee of, say, Barry Goldwater, Hugh Scott, John J. Rhodes, John Tower and other impeccable Republicans calling on Nixon after Christmas to tell him that it is time he either cleared himself or stood aside for Ford — in the interests of nation as well as party.

The fact may well be, however, that if Nixon could clear himself by any voluntary action or out of his own resources, he probably would have done so long ago. And there is nothing in his record, or what is known of his temperament, or what has been seen of his recent demeanor, to suggest that he is in a mood to sacrifice himself for country and party — Ford or no Ford.

☆ ☆ ☆

But as an election year wears on, as Republican candidates perceive themselves to be endangered by Mr. Nixon's presence at the head of their party, as the trials of Mitchell, Ehrlichman, Stans, Krogh and others presumably keep the whole complex of Watergate matters in the headlines, Republican pressures on Nixon are likely to increase rather than diminish — especially with good old Gerry Ford there as an evermore attractive alternative.

Whether or not those Republican pressures would lead to an impeachment no doubt depends a great deal on events; but it seems clear that the presence of Ford as an acceptable Republican alternative is vitally necessary to any conceivable impeachment. As a practical political matter, in a Democratic Congress there probably could not be an impeachment of a Republican landslide winner unless the impeachment movement were spearheaded by Republicans. That is why Ford's confirmation is a political event of historic dimensions.

Another possibility flowing from it is that Nixon might now seek to arrange something like an "Agnew deal" with the new vice president. He could arrange to step down, that is, in return for certain assurance from President-to-be Ford that indictments or other legal actions would not be pursued in the case of a private citizen named Richard Nixon.

More likely, the confirmation of Ford will provide only one more reason why Republicans themselves may move forcefully to oust Nixon from the White House by resignation or impeachment. If that proves to be the case, what might be the political consequences of a Ford presidency?

☆ ☆ ☆

It is reasonable to suppose that for the remainder of the Nixon term, President Gerald Ford would not be an activist, dynamic or innovative figure, but would act instead as a caretaker of most Nixonian programs, while keeping most of the Nixon team — notably Dr. Kissinger — in place. Restoring relations with Congress and reestablishing some public confidence in government would be quite enough to expect of him; for the rest, a couple of Eisenhowerish years of government repose probably would find considerable public acceptance.

The trouble with that is that it might not be just a couple of years. Whatever Ford may say now, his accession to the presidency, together with the likely prospect — absent a Ford candidacy — of a bruising Rockefeller-Reagan struggle for the Republican nomination in 1976, would be enough to result in Ford's being nominated that year and running as an incumbent president. If he had had even modest success in restoring confidence in government integrity after the Vietnam and Watergate years, and if the Democrats proved to be as divided in 1976 as they were in 1972, President Ford might well be a formidable contender for another four years in office.

But that is speculation. What is certain is that with one of their own confirmed as the legitimate constitutional successor to Richard Nixon, Republicans in the House and Senate are more likely than they were to take strong action against Nixon. With Ford in place, the final unfolding of the drama — while it may yet be delayed, debated, denounced — can be sensed at last.

MARY McLEOD BETHUNE

They Had A Dream

In 1904, with $1.50 and a prayer, Mary McLeod Bethune founded a school for girls at Daytona Beach, Fla. The student body consisted of five girls, who paid 50 cents a week tuition, and her young son.

The Daytona Normal and Industrial Institute was quartered in a four-room cottage rented for $11 a month.

Mrs. Bethune taught from behind a desk which once had been a packing crate. The students sat on chairs salvaged from a nearby dump.

"We burned logs and used the charred splinters as pencils and mashed elderberries for ink," Mrs. Bethune once recounted.

The early days were difficult, but the school slowly grew. Soon new quarters were needed. Mrs. Bethune earned the money for property on which a new school was built by baking sweet potato pies which she sold to railroad section workers.

By 1923, Mrs. Bethune's school was prosperous and still growing with 600 students, 32 faculty members and an $800,000 campus free and clear of debt.

That same year it merged with another small Florida college to become Bethune-Cookman College.

☆ ☆ ☆

Though Mrs. Bethune was known primarily as an educator, she found time for other activities.

In 1930, President Herbert Hoover appointed her to serve on a White House Conference on Child Health.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed her director of Negro Affairs in the National Youth Administration and his special adviser on minority affairs. She also was a member of F.D.R.'s so-called "Black Cabinet."

In 1945, Mrs. Bethune served as a special emissary of the State Department at the United Nations Conference in San Francisco.

In 1952, President Harry S Truman sent her as his personal representative to inauguration ceremonies in Liberia.

☆ ☆ ☆

Though she rose to become an adviser and representative of presidents, Mrs. Bethune began life in 1875 on an impoverished cotton farm as the daughter of a tenant farmer and former slave. She had 16 brothers and sisters, but only Mary and two others were born free.

Until she was 11, little Mary McLeod had no schooling. There was no school for Negroes in Mayesville, S.C.

But in 1886, the Presbyterian Board of Missions established one five miles from Mary's home. She walked the 10 miles daily to attend it. Later she went to Scotia Seminary in Concord, N.C., and Moody Bible Institute in Chicago.

She intended to become a missionary but changed her mind and turned to teaching.

She taught for seven or eight years at schools in Georgia and Florida and at one of them, a school in Savannah, met and married Albert L. Bethune. They had one son.

He was only four when Mrs. Bethune founded the school in Daytona. She served as president of the Bethune-Cookman College until her retirement in 1942 and as a trustee until she died in 1955 at the age of 80.

Righteousness

Lincoln, Neb.

There's a story somewhere about a mob of righteous men who were just about to kill a woman because she was known to be an adultress (how they knew was not explained in the story). Anyway, what happened was that some Man spoke up and asked them if any one of them was without sin, and the mob somehow disappeared without further ado.

Of course, that happened about two thousand years ago. Today things are different. Who would listen to the Man in the first place? Modern mobs are rather different in some ways; they use matches and guns and even words to kill another person. The most "righteous" people sometimes are those who are loudest and most active.

I was just thinking about this as I read the paper. In one item we are told how Spiro Agnew has been put down by his hometownsmen in Greece. They want no more of him. Don't even want to speak his name.

In another item was a long article giving the statistics regarding shoplifting in our beautiful, affluent country where most people have beautiful homes, cabins, boats, plenty of clothes and plenty of money for whatever else they may want. The authorities state positively that this shoplifting fever is growing every year and is not practiced because of poverty.

I know the ministers in the churches couldn't get away with it but how wonderful if they could — simply bring each churchman and churchwoman to look into his own heart and clean it up where it is dirty.

We all need sermons that really show us as we are. We can't recognize our own sins. And when the time comes that we do, chances are it will just be too late.

I might suggest that in Lincoln, the newspapers carry a monthly report of the cost of shoplifting. Let's watch it and see what we can do about it. Could we, perhaps, make Lincoln the national leader in — well, just call it righteousness. Why be ashamed of being honest and righteous?

Perhaps if we did that, and similar things, we would need fewer drugs to help us sleep at night. Right?

Going Without

Bennet, Neb.

Inflation, depression, energy crisis, all these changes give people something to talk about. Some seem to learn to live with them and even consider them a blessing in disguise. For others who think it hard to take, let them remember that our forefathers did without sugar until the 13th Century and were better off without it. They did without coal fires until the 14th; without butter until the 16th; without tea or soap until the 17th; without gas, matches or electricity until the 19th and without cars, canned or frozen foods until the present century. Now what is it we are complaining about?

We seem to be crowd followers. The crowd does our thinking. And especially during Christmas season. Who started this exchange of gifts that causes such a stampede? And why? The first Christmas was a giving of gifts to the poor by the wise men who came to adore.

Today if we don't get a gift in exchange we simply scratch that name off the list.

Christmas joy and peace come to those who feed the hungry, clothe the naked and shelter the homeless. And we are all aware of the millions in need today because of floods, drouth, tornadoes and the like.

I wouldn't be surprised if the gift exchange was started by the money mad who spend much time to brain-wash the gullible public.

"Benjamin Franklin may have invented electricity, but it was the guy who invented the meter who made all the money," your Today's Chuckle said.

I was surprised to learn that Mr. Franklin "invented" electricity. All the time I thought God was its "inventor."

Award Appreciated

Fairmont, Neb.

In the aftermath of being selected the Nebraska Honor Farm Family by your newspapers and days of picking corn, attending meetings and coming back down to earth, we certainly want to acknowledge this honor.

The tours of the Lincoln Journal and Star, Norden Laboratories and the telecommunications center under the guidance of Dominick Costello were most enjoyable and educational.

Highlight of the day, the noon luncheon. The governor, mayor of Lincoln, nominators and Agriculture College representatives being there made for a very touching atmosphere. We appreciated the $250 checks each from The Star and The Journal. The presentation of the plaque, corsages and the floral piece made us feel like the Royal Family.

This yearly presentation by the Journal and Star has impressed us with the fact these newspapers truly are interested in rural Nebraska.

Merry Christmas.

Regional Centers Emptying

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Back in January of 1955, the Hastings Regional Center counted a mental patient population of 1,935, about equal to a peak also reached in 1946.

This fall, the total is down to 304, or less than one-sixth of those peak loads.

In 1955, a high of 1,684 patients was counted at the Lincoln center. This fall, only 215 patients are on hand.

The Norfolk center peaked at 1,384, also in 1955. The count has now dropped to 163.

Even the Beatrice State Home for the Retarded has seen its resident number decline from a high of 2,340 in 1966 to 1,281 this fall.

State Institutions Director Dr. Jack Anderson says the trend, accelerated especially in the past 10 months, will continue.

He says he is unable to predict where and when the patient populations might level off.

But if, "as I believe it will," public acceptance of the concept of community-based rather than institutional residency and treatment increases, "there is reason to believe that some day there will be no patients left in large institutions," he says.

So what happens to buildings made vacant by the trend?

Legislative fiscal analyst Eldin Ehrlich told state senators recently that the time has come when the state must be more concerned with finding practical uses for vacated buildings than constructing new ones.

He pointed to leveling off in college and university enrollments as well as declining patient populations.

Ehrlich's office is cataloguing vacant buildings and space for an eventual report to legislators.

"We are working under the assumption that available facilities should first be utilized," he says.

The view is shared by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the legislature's Appropriations Committee.

Speaking for the committee, Marvel made the point in responding recently to Gov. J. James Exon's penal reform recommendations, which call for some capital construction.

"The state has many under-utilized facilities which must be considered as resources available for correction purposes," he said. "Further consideration must be made with respect to the fuel crisis. Nebraska does not need more buildings to heat and maintain. However, where vital to state programs, new facilities must be provided."

Marvel cited the possibility of putting correctional—penal reform—uses to some of the Lincoln Regional Center buildings.

In a more recent interview, Marvel noted the swelling demand for vocational-technical education.

"You have vocational-technical expansion contemplated at the same time that you have diminishing use of other buildings. There must be some way of pulling the pieces together....

"The university system tends to be fairly static, but state college enrollment is down, which leaves some buildings at least partially vacated. There must be some way to use these buildings rather than build a whole new vocational-technical complex."

The problem of unoccupied dormitory space, occuring on at least three of the four state college campuses, also needs to be confronted, he said.

Ehrlich says vacant state buildings have potential to be used for most any kind of governmental purpose. Considerations include the cost of converting the structures when measured against the cost of new construction, suitability of the buildings for the programs envisoned, and their location.

Dr. Anderson says declining patient populations already have resulted in demolition of some old and unsafe structures at the regional centers.

Except for construction of some replacement cottages at the Beatrice State Home, "we are not planning to build any more buildings for our mental health program," he said.

Anderson sees two main reasons for the decling populations at the mental hospitals. But, like the chicken and the egg, he isn't certain which came first.

One factor is the use of psychotropic or anti-psychotic drugs, which straighten out many disturbed patients and enable them to function in society.

The other is society's acceptance generally of more deviate behavior.

"Twenty years ago you could not find as much pathology on the streets in Nebraska," he observed. "If people looked a little different, acted a little different or talked a little different, they were put away."

Since then a more humanistic trend, improved attitudes toward one another, and greater respect for individual rights, have developed.

"Without the influence of drugs, however, I don't know if community acceptance would have been as great as it has been," he said.

As a result of the improved public attitude, local mental health center and local hospital facilities for handling the disturbed have been developed. Anderson strongly supports the community-based concept but acknowledges not all Nebraskans concur, even if opposition is diminishing.

Court: View Of Evidence Justifies Search Of Car

By The Associated Press

A police officer who spots criminal evidence or material in an automobile simply by looking through the window from the outside is justified in making a search of the vehicle, the state Supreme Court held Friday.

The point was made as the court upheld the Keith County District Court jury conviction of Domenic Franklin Romonto on a charge of possessing more than one pound of marijuana.

District Judge Rudolph Tesar of Omaha, who sat with the high court to hear the case, wrote the opinion.

Romonto was stopped by the state patrol on Interstate 80 in Keith County last year because troopers thought the station wagon he was driving lacked a front license plate. A trooper saw cigarette papers on the dash and saw something believed to be hashish on the front seat. Romonto authorized further search, turning up marijuana, and the arrest followed.

In appealing the conviction, Romonto contended his constitutional rights were violated by a warrantless search of the vehicle.

Judge Tesar held that in determining probable cause for a warrantless search, it is not significant whether the search preceded or followed the arrest.

"To require that an officer must have probable cause for arrest before he can stop and question a person would extend the constitution beyond the realm of reasonable intendment," Tesar wrote. "To do so would emasculate crime prevent and render peace officer impotent and useless. Individual rights on occasion must give way to the rights of society. This is the very purpose of law-to restrict the rights of the individual to provide protection for society."

In separate appeals brought by Marden Mayes, the high court upheld his 1972 conviction and eight year prison sentence for forgery in Douglas County, and also upheld the additional one year sentence given him in the Lancaster County District Court on an escape charge.

Mayes had been transferred to the Lincoln Veterans Hospital for treatment. He was given a hospital pass to attend last year's Nebraska-Minnesota football game, and did not return. He was arrested later in Gulfport, Miss.

The Supreme Court said Mayes was still under Penal Complex jurisdiction and custody while receiving hospital treatment. The court also rejected Mayes' claim that he was doubly jeopardized by being sentenced to one year for escape while also being disciplined by loss of earned good time.

The Dodge County District Court was affirmed in finding in favor of James Bowman in an action against the American Home Assurance Co. to collect insurance for damages to an airplane. The plane was damaged three years ago in an attempted takeoff from Mitchell, S.D., when a wing tip caught a snowbank. The status of ownership at the time of the accident was a principal issue.

In other opinions, the Supreme Court:

—Affirmed the Sarpy County District Court in dismissing a suit brought by Joseph T. Buras against School District No. 37 to quit title to an acre of land.

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court in rejecting the motion of Carolyn Miller to set aside a divorce degree.

—Upheld the Dawson County District Court's interpretation of the will of Esther M. Rasmussen in an action brought by Robert T. Rasmussen against Margaret Wedge as executrix of the estate.

—Concurred with the Douglas County District Court in the amount of a workmen's compensation delinquent payment award to Theodore L. Paustian. The case was appealed by the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Young Educator Award Announced

Dr. Donald M. Edwards, assistant dean of the College of Engineering and Technology, and professor of agricultural engineering at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will be presented the 1973 Young Educator Award for engineering achievement in education by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE). The award is sponsored by ASAE Past-President A. W. Farrall.

DR. DONALD EDWARDS

The Young Educator Award was established last year, along with a Young Designer Award and a Young Researcher Award, to honor ASAE members under 40 years of age for their contributions to the advancement of the profession of agricultural engineering. This year a new honor, the Aerovent Young Extension Man Award, will also be given. L. H. Hodges, ASAE President, will make these presentations on Wednesday, at the society's Winter Meeting in the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, Dec. 11-14.

Dr. Edwards, 35, who is recognized as a state and national leader in agricultural engineering education, developed an entirely new curriculum for graduate and undergraduate students and in 1970 was the recipient of an Outstanding Teacher Award at NU.

He has been a leader in the activities of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, now serving as chairman of its Career Guidance Committee. He has had published more than 40 magazine articles, technical research reports, handbooks, manuals, and brochures, many of which have appeared in the ASAE Journal and TRANSACTIONS.

Dr. Edwards was also a leader in the work of the university's Teaching Learning Council to improve instructional media and facilities, develop and evaluate courses, identify good teaching, prepare a handbook on advising and training of faculty. He has led the way in assisting and advising private and state colleges and community technical colleges about pre-engineering courses.

Another of his activities has been the instigation of six industrial and agency cooperative programs, with eight companies negotiating to enter the program in the next year.

Dr. Edwards received his B.S. and M.S. in agricultural engineering at South Dakota State University, Brookings, and his doctorate at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

For five years he was chairman of the Board of Christian Education of the Second Baptist Church in Lincoln and is Lancaster County 4-H Leader.

Sierra Club Praises NPPD's Decision

The Platte Valley Sierra Club said it is "pleased" with the Nebraska Public Power District's decision to purchase the most efficient electrostatic precipitator equipment available to control pollution at its Sutherland power plant.

But, the club said, it now hopes NPPD's board of directors will "install the most efficient and effective environmental equipment for the removal of sulphur dixide, sulphur trioxide, mercury, nitrogen oxide and other such gaseous emissions" from the plant.

Those, Club Vice Chairman Bob Frels said, are "the most dangerous pollutants to the environment."

NPPD is constructing a coal-burning electric generation plant near Sutherland.

"While we are pleased that the board of directors of NPPD committed itself to purchase the most efficient electrostatic precipitator for the Gerald Gentleman Plant," Frels said, "we are somewhat concerned that this decision was made without a permit from the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control.

"Our reason for concern is that both the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the National Sierra Club have indicated that a process known as scrubbing is more reliable and effective than electrostatic precipitators."

DEC should have "shared in this decision," he said.

The NPPD board voted to purchase precipitators which would remove 99.8% rather than 99.5% of the particulate matter (ash) which otherwise would have gone up the stack and into the air.

While that may sound like "little significant difference" to the layman, Frels said, it will make "a significant difference in the impact on the air quality in a clean air region such as we have in the Hershey-Sutherland area.".

The Sierra Club has been "fighting to insure that NPPD installs the most efficient and effective environmental equipment available in order to preserve the clean air of the Platte Valley," Frels said.

"It now appears that the board of directors of NPPD is moving closer to this objective."

'La Payita' In Refuge

Santiago, Chile (AP) — The late President Salvador Allende's private secretary, the only woman on the Chilean military government's list of 10 most-wanted persons, has taken refuge in the Swedish Embassy, the Foreign Ministry said.

Miriam Contreras de Ropert, or "La Payita" as she is commonly known, dropped from sight Sept. 11, the day the armed forces ousted Allende. The junta said the 65-year-old Marxist president took his own life with a gun in the midst of fighting in the presidential palace.

An undersecretary of the Foreign Ministry, Ernrique Carvallo, said Swedish Ambassador Harald Edelstam told the ministry that La Payita sought political asylum in the embassy along with her daughter and son-in-law and their 1-year-old son.

Chile's military government has ordered Edelstam's expulsion because of his efforts to protect leftists sought by the government. Sources at the embassy said Edelstam would leave Chile within a week.

'All You Can Eat' Doesn't Include Steak

Kellogg, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. Ira Tatham says the promise of all you can eat for $4.50 a day at her boarding house for miners is almost correct.

"Because of the high prices of steak, there is a limit of one steak per person per meal," she said. "I give them mostly roast beef, roast pork, ham, turkey, chicken, potatoes and hash — that's what we're going to have today."

After some slim days when metal prices were low, her boarding house is full again with 27 roomers and 55 boarders.

"I raised the price of meals 25 cents just recently," she said. "It was the first increase since 1971. May be I should have raised it more. Miners are a hungry lot."

Investigation Planned

Buenos Aires (AP) — Argentina's internal revenue authorities have told 200 private companies — among them many foreign companies — that the government plans to make a searching investigation into their structures and accounting methods.

Safe Driver Award

Thunder Bay, Ont. (AP) — Police each day present a small gift package to a driver who traffic patrolment think is the day's safest driver. The contents include a beer stein.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Saturday

Many astrologers claim that the most popular senior citizens are born under Libra. Natives of this zodiacal sign are said to grow old gracefully. Perhaps this is because Libra strives to absorb various points of view and avoids a fixed or intransigent position.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money and desires coincide and you find that state of euphoria could exist. Gifts and compliments come your way. Gemini and Virgo persons seem likely to be involved. You are repaid for past efforts and you might collect debt in surprising manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may be stacking odds against yourself. Don't claim more than can be delivered. Keep boasts to minimum. This applies especially in dealings with opposite sex. Make concessions without feeling defeated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight natural abilities. Be versatile. Avoid tendency to brood. You may not get exactly what you think you deserve — but you come out on top. Know it and grow up about it. Seeking perfection is the Holy Grail and fountain of youth and it is myth. Appreciate what is available.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Highlight creativity, originality and greater degree of independence. Leo figures in important way. Talk of travel and publishing creates flurry of inner excitement. But don't tip your hand. Some may want something of value at bargain rate. You deserve "top price."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Love interest captures spotlight. Married or single, romance pushes into picture. You feel more alive, vital and creative. Accept possibility of change. You need not be stuck in niche, routine or emotional corner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): One close to you makes offer which is partly personal, partly business. What is said now may not be true indication of feelings or potential. Your best bet is to experiment, test, write and call. Listen but don't commit yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Check details. Build on solid base. Deal with Leo, Aquarius and Scorpio. Remember health resolutions. Pace yourself. Avoid extremes. Maintain calm attitude. Being upset accomplishes nothing. You are in better position than might be apparent on surface.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You find yourself with "more room." You are less confined. Your services, opinions are sought — you feel more confident. Member of opposite sex may be playing emotional games. Stakes are high; protect yourself in clinches.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your appearance improves. Purchase of wearing apparel proves to be money well spent. Your morale surges as you are complimented in meaningful way. Taurus, Libra persons play roles. You also find that what you own has hidden value.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Relative who seems devious is harmless. Know it and display sense of humor. In other areas, refuse to take gossip seriously. Key now is to come down from clouds and to see in light of reality. Your extrasensory perception is on target. Heed inner voice.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are an organizer, a politician, a person who knows where to go and who to see to get things done. You are dynamic, agressive and will make significant changes in 1974. Your most important months next year will be March and December. Capricorn persons are drawn to you. You make money with those persons and they understand you.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

American Revolution Regarded As Irresponsible And Stupid

By ROBERT PETERSON

Sometime ago we urged older readers to share any unusual insights they have reached in retirement years. Some of the letters we've received are bland, but others have proved so extraordinary as to jolt the senses.

"I'm 75, retired, with a lot of time for thinking," writes Joseph E. Papper of Pittsburgh, Pa., "and have come up with a conclusion that infuriates my wife who belongs to the DAR and startles those who were taught to admire our battle for freedom from British rule.

"I've concluded that the American Revolution was irresponsible, stupid, and I have no particular admiration for Washington, Adams, Franklin or the rest of our so-called heroes because their wilful desire to break away from Britain created far more havoc than good.

"Why were they so eager to break away? Purportedly they were taxed without representation. But England's taxes were fair, considering the services the colony received. And England had a tradition of government and justice which wasn't perfect but which was certainly the best in the world.

"Yet this arrogant band of immigrant militants fanned the populace into believing they could run this new country better than England, so they fostered a rebellion that led to the bloody American Revolution with its accompanying hardships and loss of life.

"What did they achieve after all the killing, burning, pillaging and chaos? Simply, the privilege henceforth of doing for themselves what Britain had been doing for them.

"The greatest folly resulting from the American Revolution relates to slavery. Britain abolished the slave trade in 1807 and by 1840 any slaves in British colonies were freed by law. But the stupid new Americans so proud of their independence insisted on retaining the slave trade until 1860 when the problem festered into the Civil War which lasted some five years and devastated the land.

"Further," writes Papper, "both World Wars I and II might never have happened. Modern historians claim with good logic that both the Kaiser in 1914 and Hitler in 1939 would probably not have dared to antagonize a British Empire that included America. Doubting that America would involve itself, the Germans dared to attack England thus incurring the greatest war costs in recorded history.

"It's ironic that those who are the most ardent enthusiasts of the Revolution, such as members of the DAR, are also the most ardent Anglophiles today," concludes Papper. "These are the people who love England and the English people, who are fascinated by the royal family, and proudly claim England as their 'mother' country.

"If our revolutionary hotheads had just been patient, the United States would undoubtedly have eventually been given self-governing status, just as Canada and Australia. And think of all the chaos and tragedy that could have been averted!"

Terrarium—Build It, Watch It Grow

Terrariums are "fun to build and great to watch grow," according to Lancaster County extension agent Esther Wyant.

And apparently there are a lot of people who agree with her. During the past several years, countless bottles, jugs, jars and snifters have been scrounged up, purchased or otherwise obtained by budding indoor gardeners eager to try their luck at terrarium building.

But planting — and maintaining — a terrarium involves a good deal more than simply plopping some plants in a container and watching them grow.

A number of essential factors must be considered by those who are about to build a terrarium: the type of container to be used (size, shape, open or closed); the variety of plants to be included; the soil misture that will best facilitate the growth of those plants; and the amount of light and water required by the plants in the container.

County extension agent Emery Nelson pointed out that "the reason most terrariums fail is because the right plants aren't put in the right container; or the plants aren't suited to the place the terrarium will be set."

However, with a little care in the selection and assembly of materials — and in tending the finished product — anyone can become a successful terrarium grower.

Containers

The first thing to be considered in constructing a terrarium is the container. According to Nelson, the ideal container is made of thin, non-colored glass.

"Thick or colored glass containers filter out a great amount of light," he said, adding that if such a container is used care must be taken to assure that the plants receive sufficient light.

In addition, the container should be large enough to allow the plants room to grow. (He suggested that the container should be at least a foot high.)

The container may be closed or open — depending on the type of plants to be used — and Nelson noted that "any type of container you can't get your hand into we consider a closed container" because those with small openings inhibit water evaporation.

Ms. Wyant pointed out that the container should be appropriately-designed for the type of room in which it is to be used.

The materials necessary for building a terrarium include gravel (for drainage), activated charcoal (to keep the soil sweet), a soil mixture, living moss if desired, and distilled water.

Soil Materials

A variety of soil mixtures may be used in the terrarium — and the nature of the soil mixture will depend again on the plants that will be grown.

According to Nelson, most plants will do well in a loam soil mixture consisting of 1 part soil (rich, black garden soil), ¾ to 1 part sand and 1 part peat moss.

TERRARIUM CONSTRUCTION

Story By Cynthia Johnson

African violets and similar plants require a humus soil mixture — 1 part soil, ¾ to 1 part sand and 2 parts peat moss.

And a dry soil mixture — 1 part soil, 2 parts sand and 1 part peat moss — should be used for cacti and succulents.

Purchased potting soil may be used, but it should be mixed with perlite in order to make the soil more porous. The proportion of potting soil to perlite depends on the weight of the soil, Nelson said. If the soil is heavy, he suggested 1 part perlite to 2 parts soil; and, if the soil is lighter, less perlite may be used.

Before planting the terrarium, the sand, gravel and soil should be sterilized by baking for two hours in a 200 degree oven.

The container should be cleaned with soap and water (and polished with corborundum powder if desired) before planting. And, if it has previously been filled with soil and plants, it should be disinfected with a chlorine bleach solution (¼ c. bleach to 1 gal. water.)

Rinse the cleaned container with distilled water.

Steps In Planting

The first step in actually building the terrarium is to line the sides of the container with living moss, if so desired. The moss— which is moistened in distilled water and then applied to the inside walls of the container up to the point of the proposed soil level — serves to camouflage the layers of soil and gravel.

Nelson observed that there are "lots of different kinds" of living moss available, and the terrarium builder should be "selective in choosing moss that stays green and doesn't decay."

After the moss has been installed, the layers of gravel, charcoal and soil may be added (carefully so as not to soil the sides of the container).

Nelson suggested ½ to ¾ inches of gravel in the bottom, upon which a layer of charcoal (¼ to ½ cup) and then the soil mixture are placed.

The soil should be added to a level that will equal 25 to 35% of the depth of the container.

Before inserting the plants, the excess dirt should be shaken from the roots; and if the roots are long, they should be trimmed.

Hollow out a depression in the soil and insert the plant. Cover the roots with soil and tamp it down firmly around the base of the plant.

In a medium sized container, three plants may be used; and a larger container may accommodate up to five plants, Nelson said.

Care should be taken in choosing plants that like similar amounts of light and moisture if they are to be placed together in the same terrarium.

In addition, "You should pick your plants so they have some type of natural arrangement," Nelson said, adding that sequence, balance, color and texture should be taken into consideration when selecting plants.

The landscaping may be completed with stones, driftwood, bark, seashells, ornaments, etc. but Nelson cautioned that the terrarium should be "kept on the natural side."

Planting Tools

When working with a narrow-mouth container, it will probably be necessary to have some tools to facilitate planting and care. However, Ms. Wyant added, "If your container is one you can get your hand into, you don't really need any tools."

Most of the tools can be obtained or made at home, and a number of those suggested for building a narrow-mouthed terrarium include a long, narrow plastic bag to be used when adding the soil misture (twist the bag shut, lower into container and let the soil fall in gradually), tampers (which may be fashioned by gluing a cork to a dowel rod), an X-acto knife (fastened to a dowel rod, if necessary) for trimming plants, long wires and a bent spoon.

A poultry baster is a good device for watering plants in all kinds of terrariums, and a long artist's brush may be used to clean the leaves.

Nelson cautioned that the terrarium should always be watered with distilled water in order to prevent lime deposits.

Condensation which may appear on the sides of a closed container is caused by a change in room temperature, Nelson said. And it may be eliminated by removing the terrarium lid. However, removing the lid will cause the water to evaporate, and more moisture will probably have to be added.

Plants may be trimmed back if they grow too large for the terrarium, Nelson added, explaining that they should be trimmed near a leaf node.

Because of the fact that nutrients are retained within the terrarium, Nelson said that it should not be necessary to fertilize it.

"If you use good materials to begin with, it will never have to be fertilized," he said.

LIVING MOSS . . . is placed along container sides by Mrs. John Kotouc.

Two of the steps in terrarium preparation are pictured at the right. After the sides of the container are lined with moss, ½ to ¾ inches of gravel are placed on the bottom.

Friends Have Smelly Apartment

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I became friendly with a couple who recently moved into our building. They are charming, intellectual people, but their apartment is always filthy and has a terrible lingering odor.

They are constantly asking us over for a drink or dinner (yech!) and whenever possible we reverse the invitation because we'd rather not eat there and we can't stand the odor.

We're not fanatics about cleanliness, but their kitchen floor is so gummy our shoes actually stick to it. Well, you get the idea.

Is there a subtle or tactful way to suggest they clean up their place and get rid of the odor? We hate to hurt their feelings or lose their friendship.

NEW NEIGHBORS

DEAR NEW: I know of no subtle or tactful way to tell people to clean up their place and get rid of the odor. If you enjoy the company of these charming intellectuals, continue to reverse their invitations.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HANGING ON": I have no statistics on how many men eventually marry the women with whom they have lived. But I can't imagine why a man would run after a bus he has already caught.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Energy Crisis Effect 'Overblown'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The effect of the energy crisis on investments has "been overblown" and is "more of a psychological depressant than an actual depressant on the stock market," the president of Wright Investors' Service (WIS) said Friday in Lincoln.

"The restriction of consumer spending will be much greater psychologically than any restriction of industrial products resulting from the fuel shortage," said John Winthrop Wright of Bridgeport, Conn.

Wright attended an executives' meeting of First Mid America Inc. (FMA), the franchised broker for WIS, an investment research and analysis service, according to FMA President Dale C. Tinstman.

The public has misapprehensions, Wright said in an interview, that the fuel crisis will "cause more inflation. Exactly the opposite will be the result."

The reason, he said, is that "although higher fuel costs will raise all prices about 1¢ (based on the consumer index), the shift from consumer spending to saving and an economic slowdown will be very deflationary.

"This is world-wide," he said.

"By the end of the first quarter of next year," Wright predicted, "we will have declining rates of inflation and they will continue to get lesser, not more."

Unemployment Rise Seen

He submitted that unemployment will increase, but "how bad it will be depends upon the level of interest rates, which in turn depends absolutely on the policy of the Federal Reserve Board.

"If they make the mistake they made in 1930 of maintaining very high interest rates," he stated, "we could have a serious recession."

If the "Fed" acts immediately "to reduce interest rates substantially and promptly, we can have only a small cutback in economic growth and a small increase in unemployment," Wright said.

"It rests entirely in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board."

'Forced Into It'

Asked whether he thinks the "Fed" will indeed lower interest rates, Wright replied, "They will be forced into it. The public is fed up with usurious, 10% interest rates.

"Banana republic interest rates," he added.

"What this country needs is a good 5% interest rate. It doesn't need regulation. It doesn't need rationing."

Rather he said, America needs "to increase productivity, create employment and restore competition."

Wright said, "Stock market prices have become seriously undersold and overvalued as the result of an unreasoning, herd-like stampede to sell by Wall Street institutions."

'Insufficient professionalism'

That is happening, he asserted, because of "insufficient professionalism."

Instead of the fuel crisis threatening investments, the stock market picture "represents, in fact, the best investment opportunity that we have seen since the 1930s to buy high-quality, common stocks now," Wright said.

And he said people "should certainly not sell" that type of stocks they now hold, such as General Motors.

"Because GM is not going to make as much money" owing to the fuel crisis, the public "think(s) the stock is going to go to zero."

Wright explained that although GM is selling for less than it did years ago, "the earnings are double." He said even if there will be reduced earnings, stocks are still underpriced.

"The stock market has doubly discounted any decline in earnings resulting from the energy crisis," he said.

Warren United Methodist Plans $39,700 Budget

The Warren United Methodist Church, 45th & Orchard, adopted a budget of $39,700 for calendar year 1974 at its annual budget meeting, according to the Rev. C. Rex Bevins, pastor.

The figure is $3,025 more than the 1973 budget, Bevins said. Church membership is also up 43, bringing the present membership to 466.

Church leaders also adopted a three-year loan repayment budget of $45,000 to pay on the mortgage on a sanctuary and classrooms built in 1972.

New church officers elected include: John D. Furrer, lay leader; Warren H. Parker, lay member to the annual conference; Robert C. Sorensen, chairman of the Council on Ministries; Doyle H. Free, chairman of the Administrative Board; Oliver Grace, vice-chairman of the Administrative Board; and Mrs. Sandra Siedel, secretary of the Administrative Board.

Work area chairmen elected were: Margaret Richert, ecumenical affairs; Mrs. Robert Sorensen, education; C. W. Nibler, evangelism; Mrs. Dale State, missions; Mrs. Sharon Anderson, social concerns; Verdon H. Petersen, stewardship; and Herbert Hackman, worship.

Bylaw Changes Covering Funds Approved By Lincoln Foundation

The Lincoln Foundation Friday approved bylaw changes that make it clear the foundation can receive and hold funds which can be used outside Lancaster County.

Although the foundation will continue its primary service to Lancaster County residents, the changes will permit it to make grants anywhere in the U.S.

Robert Guenzel, former foundation president, explained that all other community foundations in the country can use a portion of funds for grant purposes outside their identified geographical boundaires.

And he said no such limitation would have applied in Lincoln either.

But because of tradition, he said, the Lincoln Foundation has been seen as a repository for funds to be used only in this area.

Fairly recent changes in federal law and Nebraska's relatively sparse population have combined, said Guenzel, to provide a "substantial opportunity to acquire funds where a portion will be used outside Lancaster County."

Thus, he said, it seemed appropriate to clarify the foundation bylaws.

The foundation board met first to vote on the recommendation and then the general membership met to approve it.

In other matters, the board approved a $4,000 grant to the Lincoln Salvation Army and a $1,000 grant to help establish a statewide 911 telephone number for emergency purposes.

In the latter, the Lincoln Foundation and several other small foundations are cooperating and the Lincoln Foundation is acting as the primary vehicle for fund collection.

Children's Zoo Director To Be Alan Bietz

Ford First Nebraskan To Hold So High A Post

By The Associated Press

When Gerald R. Ford was sworn in Thursday as the nation's 40th vice president, he also became the first native of Nebraska to hold such a high office.

According to Marvin Kivett, director of the Nebraska Historical Society, the highest national office previously attained by any Nebraskan was secretary of state, given to William Jenning Bryan in 1913, the year Ford was born.

Kivett said Bryan, who was not a native of this state, served in that post under President Woodrow Wilson until he resigned in 1915 over a dispute about U.S. involvement in World War I. Bryan also ran unsuccesssfully on the Democratic ticket for president.

Prior to Ford, the highest office previously held by a native Nebraskan was the post of U.S. attorney general, Kivett said. Herbert Brownell Jr. served in that post from 1953 to 1957 under President Dwight Eisenhower.

Charles Gates Owen, who was vice president from 1925 to 1929 under President Calvin Coolidge, once lived in Nebraska, but was not here at the time of his election, Kivett said.

Records also showed that at least one president, Chester A. Arthur, practiced law in Omaha years before he entered politics. Born in Albany, N.Y., Arthur was President from 1881 to 1884.

Ford was born in Omaha July 14, 1913, and has visited Nebraska as recently as last April.

Kivett said Ford's birthplace, believed to be a three-story frame house which once stood at 32nd Street and Woolworth Avenue, may one day be the site of a historical marker.

He was born to Leslie L. King and Dorothy A. King. His natural father was believed to be a merchant in Omaha. The couple was divorced Jan. 29, 1914. King still was in Douglas County at that time but Mrs. King had moved to Chicago.

Mrs. King later married Gerald Ford, who adopted the small boy and gave him his name. The family moved to Michigan when Ford was a child. He later became a football standout at the University of Michigan.

Barbie has a boy friend—her first! There'll be many more.

But someday Barbie will have a boy friend—her last! And there'll be an engagement, and a wedding, and a wonderful life together with their children . . .

If he's THE RIGHT ONE!

Barbie's present boy friend is being brought up the way Barbie is—in fact, they met at Sunday School! Their families worship regularly . . . they seek the same moral and spiritual aims.

But, what about THE RIGHT ONE? Is this fiance-to-be receiving the same sound preparation for tomorrow? Are his parents building the future on the firm foundation of religious faith? Will he be right for Barbie?

The church bells that ring every Sunday are not wedding bells. But they sound the destiny of our sons and daughters . . . and of their families yet unborn.

Stocks Sweep Upward

New York (AP) — Stock prices swept upwards Friday for the second time in as many days, ignoring higher interest rates and rising unemployment.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed 23.93 higher at 838.05, coming hard on the heels of Thursday's 25.81 advance, the best in six months. Advances broadly outweighed declines 1,339 to 276 on the New York Stock Exchange, where volume was a heavy 23.23 million shares.

The NYSE broad-based index of all its listed common stock advanced 1.19 to 51.35, while the Amex market-value index rose 1.51 to 91.55.

"Stocks rose right across the board, both technically and in response to political factors," said Ralph Acampora of Harris, Upham & Co. "Things have turned the corner a bit."

Friday's action brought the Dow blue chip average to its first weekly advance in six weeks, or since the historic "energy slide" began Oct. 29. The depressed values of many stocks bought in buyers Thursday and Friday, brokers said, plus some hopeful signs that Mideast tensions might be easing. Greater confidence in Washington with the installation of Gerald R. Ford was also a factor, a nalysts felt.

"The big question is whether the advance can be sustained," continued Acampora.

On the Big Board, where block trades dropped to 120 from Thursday's 171, United Brands led trading, up 1 at 7⅝, Pamada Inns picked up ⅜ to 5⅛, and British Petroleum, fourth most-active, gained ⅛ to 13⅞.

Autos gained, with General Motors up 1⅜ to 48¼ and Ford ⅞ higher at 42¾. Exemption of several nonferrous metals from price controls helped push Kennecott up 3 to 39 and Alcan Aluminum ahead 1⅞ to 38.

Border Dweller 'Sort Of Like United Nations'

Point Roberts, Wash. (AP) — The Union Jack flies again over Christine Emmas' home, and she says bomb threats won't bring it down this time.

Mrs. Emmas is a British subject caught in a dispute over a plan to include Port Roberts, a border community, in an international park run by a Canadian-American board.

"I'm not a Canadian or an American," said Mrs. Emmas. She said she raised the British flag "to show people I'm sort of like the United Nations."

Mrs. Emmas, who lives with two daughters, began getting obscene and threatening phone calls. She took the flag down once after a man told her "to get the hell out of the country" or he'd blow up her flag and house.

But this week she raised the British flag again and said it will fly below the Stars and Stripes for as long as she remains here.

Mrs. Allende Is Issued Visa To Visit U.S.

A temporary tourist visa was issued to Mrs. Allende and her arrival in the United States is expected any day, the officials said.

Mrs. Allende was bitterly critical of the United States following the ouster of her husband's government in a military coup, claiming Washington was responsible for his downfall.

Since the coup, she has visited Mexico and Europe and reportedly is now in Canada.

A radio broadcast in Santiago Tuesday, quoted a Chilean spokesman as saying the U.S. decision to extend the visa was deplorable.

It said the issuance of a visa "to a woman who is discrediting her own country. . .is not valid."

UNL Students Split On Impeaching Nixon

University of Nebraska-Lincoln students are almost evenly split on the question of whether President Nixon should resign his office, according to a student poll conducted in November by the campus newspaper.

Of the 282 randomly selected students who returned their questionaires to the Daily Nebraskan newspaper, 40% said Nixon should resign, 47% said he should remain in office and 13% were undecided.

And they rated Nixon's performance as president much lower than they had in a similar poll a year ago. This year 2% said he's dong and excellent job; 15%, good; 25%, fair; 21%, poor; 32%, unacceptable; and 5%, undecided.

Responses for the same categories a year ago were: 9%, 36%, 33%, 10%, 11%, and 1% undecided.

Fifty-five per cent of the students said they believe former Vice President Spiro Agnew's $10,000 fine and three-year suspended sentence for tax evasion was too lenient. Forty-one per cent said the sentence was adequate, and 13% said it was too severe.

Newly appointed Vice President Gerald Ford did not receive a significant margin of confidence from the UNL students polled. Asked if Ford would make a good vice president, 46% said yes, 9% said no and 41% were undecided.

And of Nebraska's congressional delegation, only First District Rep. Charles Thone received a majority vote of confidence from the students. Fifty-nine per cent rated his job performance as fair to excellent. Senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska had only 24% and 28% of the students rate their performances as fair to excellent.

Fourty per cent of the students considered themselves moderately liberal, and 22%, middle-of-the-road. The remaining students were spread fairly evenly on either side on the liberal-conservative continuum.

Of those students who responded to the poll, 163 were male and 117 female. There were 51 freshmen, 52 sophomores, 58 juniors, 77 seniors and 42 graduate students.

Aeronautics Chief Says Frontier Not That Short

By The Associated Press

In a last ditch effort tc forestall air service cutbacks in Nebraska by Frontier Airlines, state aeronautics director Rudolf Peralez personally appealed Friday to Frontier president A. L. Feldman.

Peralez said all evidence available to him indicated Frontier had been supplied with adequate fuel to continue service. He said he intended to ask the Nebraska Public Service Commission to intervene in an effort to block the cutbacks, and subsequently did so.

Eighteen flights affecting eight Nebraska cities are scheduled to be cancelled, beginning Saturday. Communities affected include Lincoln, Scottsbluff, Hastings, North Platte, Omaha, Columbus, McCook and Kearney.

Peralez said he told Feldman during the telephone conversation he felt the cuts were unjustified. He acknowledged that a certain amount of reduced air service is necessary because of the fuel shortage, but said Nebraska communities already were being serviced at a bare minimum level.

The aeronautics director also protested the reported addition of flights from Denver, where Frontier is based, to Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz., at the same time that Nebraska service was being cut.

"We're still convinced fuel is available and they are using the fuel shortage as an excuse to cut service on less profitable routes," Peralez said.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission, regulating agency for common carriers, indicated earlier this week it might involve itself in the Frontier cutback case. In a resolution, the commission directed that any cuts in intrastate air service be first cleared with the commission.

The resolution said the Frontier cutback "jeopardizes the public convenience and necessity beyond that which is demanded by the national fuel shortage."

Omaha Firm Labor Ruling Is Overturned

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has overturned a ruling by an NLRB administrative law judge and has ordered Colonial Press, Inc., of Omaha to rehire six employes discharged Aug. 22, 1972.

The decision is the latest in a series of rulings by the NLRB and its representatives that grew out of a dispute between the company and Local 203 of the Graphic Arts International Union.

According to previous NLRB testimony, the union struck the company Aug. 23, 1972, partly because of alleged unfair labor practices and partly because contract negotiations were not progressing satisfactorily.

The strike was called one day after Colonial had discharged seven employes. When the strike ended in February 1973, Colonial refused to reinstate six of the seven employes, according to the testimony.

The NLRB said the six were strikers and were entitled to reinstatement, with back pay.

A representative for Colonial said a decision hasn't been made on whether the NLRB ruling will be appealed.

Hill Files For Re-Election To NPPD's Board

Jack J. Hill of Ogallala filed Friday for re-election to the board of directors of the Nebraska Public Power District from the fourth district.

Thus far, Hill is the only board member to file for re-election; a total of five seats will be before the electorate at the spring primary election.

Rushville Gas Sales Restricted

Rushville (UPI) — The operators of two of Rushville's five service stations say they are limiting daily sales and purchases of gasoline.

Francis Fraser, manager of the Exxon Service Center, said his daily pump sales of 350 gallons are being met by noon each day. He said his December allocation was cut 17% from last year and he is forced to limit his sales to make it through the month.

The Farmers Co-op said it is pumping 500 gallons of gasoline daily, with a $3 purchase limit per customer. Its December allocation was cut 25%.

A co-op spokesman said diesel fuel sales are being trimmed 20% and only those customers who purchased it last winter are eligible to do so this year. The spokesman said the co-op propane supply is being reduced 35% over last year.

The other three service stations in this northwest Nebraska community of 1,100 persons report no limit on sales. However, the Standard, Phillips 66 and Mobil operators are uncertain whether the trend will continue through the winter.

Talks Between Hormel & Co., Butchers Slated

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP)—Negotiations between George A. Hormel & Co. and its butchers and meat cutters will resume next Wednesday—averting scheduled walkouts at Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Fremont, Neb., plants.

The last negotiations began in Austin Oct. 23 and broke down four days later.

Some 750 members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America at Fort Dodge recently served notice that they would strike on Saturday. Workers in Fremont said they would strike next week.

However, a union spokesman said Friday that both walkouts were postponed on a day-to-day basis when a renewal of negotiations was announced.

The continuing contract is renegotiated beginning on Sept. 1 of each third year

Paper, Metal Taken At Recycling Center

By KEN GRAY
Star Staff Writer

A handful of volunteers spend Saturday afternoons in an empty parking lot fighting paper and metal shortages and protecting the environment.

The volunteers collect newsprint, scrap paper, tin cans and aluminum from anyone who is willing to deliver it to the recycling center at 10th & G streets.

The project is sponsored by the Recycling Task Force of the Citizen's for Environmental Improvement (CEI). Susan Sampson, chairman of the task force, says citizens are invited to bring old newspapers, scrap paper, cardboard and paper sacks to the center for recycling.

The center is open each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mrs. Sampson said people can also bring scrap aluminum and tin cans, and glass.

Meanwhile, on the other side of town, Susan Reiss and a group of East High School students operate another recycling collection site each Saturday and Sunday.

Began Last Spring

Reiss began the center last spring She said an ecology club being organized at East High will operate the center, and collect information for students on recycling and protection of the environment.

The East high center is open Saturday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., and Sunday from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Reiss said the Sunday hours will be changed because it gets dark earlier now.

The CEI task force at 10th & G has been collecting glass for over a year, Mrs. Sampson said, and is now crushing it to make glasphalt.

Glasphalt is asphalt made with crushed glass instead of sand.

She said the 50 tons of glass they have collected will be crushed in a converted feed grinder and given to Cather Construction Co. Cather will pave a parking lot with the experimental glasphalt.

'Street Patching'

"We hope the city will decide to use it for street patching" if the material proves successful, Mrs. Sampson said.

Aluminum has recently become a popular recycling item, she said. The task force picks up aluminum press plates from the printing departments of the Statehouse and the Roads Department. And, citizens brings cans and used TV trays to the collection site.

Mrs. Sampson said the newest task force project is a collection program at General Arnold School. The students will deposit all their scrap paper in a collection bin that will be picked up by members of the task force.

The task force is also planning a pilot pick-up program in apartment complexes. Tenants will be asked to separate the aluminum and paper from their trash and place it on their doorstep for collection.

Site Sought

Mrs. Sampson said the group is looking for a permanent site that could be operated at least three days a week. She said the group would like to find some unused city land that would have a storage area.

Previously, she said, there have not been enough volunteers to man a collection site for more than one day a weekend. Now the group is receiving money for the recyclable material it collects, and can afford to pay volunteers for their effort.

She said aluminum and tin cans are sold to Northwestern Metal and paper is sold to Dennis Paper Sales. The money is being spent on a $175 glass crusher, staff for the collection site, a collection bin for General Arnold School, gas and expenses. The reserve money is being saved to rent a permanent building or collection site, if necessary.

The average Saturday attendance at the city-county parking lot site has been about 250 persons a week. Russell Miller, president of CEI, said collections have been averaging 8 tons of paper a week. The last month's average was down to 5 tons a week, he said.

Tin scraps have been averaging 6,800 pounds a month, aluminum, 250 pounds a month, and glass about 6,400 pounds.

Doctor: Temperature Cut Does Not Affect Health

Omaha (AP) — Lowering inside temperatures to cope with the energy crisis will have no effect on your health, according to a Creighton University Medical School professor.

Dr. Donald Magee, chairman of the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology, said the effect on health of setting the thermostat in the mid 60s is insignificant.

Dr. Magee, who is originally from Northern Ireland, said Americans have over-heated their homes for too long.

"People in Great Britain, who have central heating, don't turn their thermostats up as high as they do here," he said.

"Their heat is set at about 65 degrees, but they don't sit around the house in their undershirts.

"The people we traditionally think of as living in a cold environment, like the Eskimos, actually haven't adapted to a low temperature because they wear clothes," Magee said. "What they've adapted to is the temperature inside their fur-lined clothing."

The fashions of American women "show how people are incomprehensible beings," he said. "The great, big wooly boots and the nylon stockings, which from a thermal point of view are worthless, makes a woman, for all intents and purposes, naked to the hips."

Dr. Magee has some tips on how to keep warm. One factor, he said, is air movement. It is much easier to stand 65 degrees if the air is still than if it is moving.

"Air is a good insulator," Magee said, and contrasted how a person would react to a room heated to 70 degrees and water at the same temperature.

"Swimming pool water at 70 degrees feels cold," he said. "The reason is that water is a rotten insulator and you actually feel the temperature."

Another factor in assuring greater comfort in a cooler home is humidity. "You'll be able to tolerate lower temperatures, with less discomfort if the air is more humid," Dr. Magee said. "Evaporation from the skin in a dry environment takes heat from the body."

Magee suggests stores and shopping centers lower thermostats even more. He said customers coming into shops wear heavy winter clothing. Warm stores are not heated for the customer, he said, but for the shirt-sleeved sales personnel.

Magee said a solution is for clerks to wear warmer clothing.

Energy also could be conserved by less frequent bathing, Magee said, noting "the American fad for bathing and showering every day. That in my view is plain rubbish."

He said a once-a-week bathing schedule is sufficient, with no advantage, medically speaking, in bathing more often.

From a medical point of view, Magee said, no one should feel any harmful effects by lowering their thermostats to the suggested levels.

Regents' Action On College Liked

People in the Scottsbluff area are pleased with the action by the Board of Regents to accept the now defunct Hiram Scott College facility for use as an agricultural research station.

The gift of 225 acres of land, two homes and two buildings will be used to expand the Panhandle Research Station now headquartered at nearby Mitchell.

"The new land is only 4 and a quarter miles from our present operation. It will add prime cropland which we have needed for research. Land here is sandy and there is only about 60 acres used as cropland. This new land is more typical of farmland in western Nebraska, so it is much more useful as research land," said Dr. John Weihing, director of the Panhandle Station.

Weihing said his staff of 17 was "keen to get the new land because it was becoming increasingly difficult to find areas suitable for research."

Bob Finke, president of the Scottsbluff Chamber of Commerce, said "It is pleasing that the governor, the University and local people are finally in agreement. Now we have a solid basis to build on."

Jack Selser of the Scottsbluff National Bank said "We will leave it up to the University as to what programs are best suited to our area, but we are very pleased."

Jim Naumon, publisher of the Businessman-Farmer predicted that expanded research on sugarbeets, irrigation, feed grains, entomology and agronomy would be most beneficial to the area.

"Research done here can make it possible for our sugarbeet growers to compete with sugargrowers anywhere in the world. This will benefit Nebraska, the nation and perhaps the entire world," he said.

Naumon said the addition of a service to livestock producers in the form of a diagnostic laboratory would be most beneficial.

NU Relative Support Study Gets Backing

By United Press International

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Friday he supports the idea of creating a commission to study the relative support given the University of Nebraska as compared with other Big Eight institutions in terms of state tax money.

Carpenter said he personally isn't willing to settle for a level of support for NU "any less than the highest level provided" for any other institution in the conference.

"It's high time the people of the state of Nebraska made the commitment for this university to be No. 1 academically as well as in football," he said.

The lawmaker also said he thought the time for such a move was right.

"This state is enjoying the best financial year in its history and there is no better time right now to make this decision and to move on it," Carpenter said.

The commission suggestion came up Thursday during a meeting of the NU Board of Regents. The Regents requested such a commission be created.

Carpenter said the matter should be handled as soon as possible.

"I would urge the governor to move immediately so that this information can be before the Legislature in time for the Budget Committee to act on it," he said.

He added, "I will give it my full support."

As to the makeup of the commission, the senator suggested it include representatives from the Legislature's fiscal staff, the state's Department of Administrative Services and the university.

Exon Spurs A Delay In Fuel Allocation Plan

By The Associated Press

A telegram which Gov. J. James Exon sent Monday to midwestern governors and leaders of the National Governors' Conference, dealing with fuel allocation programs, has borne fruit, the governor was informed Friday.

Originally, the administration had set Friday, Dec. 7, as deadline for filing objections to a new energy policy on middle distillate fuels.

Exon, chairman of the Midwest Governors Conference, sent wires Monday urging governors to demand a delay at least to Dec. 20 so the governors could discuss the program and raise objections.

Exon was informed by the National Governors' Conference office in Washington Friday that in response to its urging, the White House has agreed to revise the proposed mandatory allocation program and wait until after the nation's governors have met in Washington next Thursday before implementing it.

Exon said he will leave for Washington Wednesday night, and return Thursday night.

The governor had said the proposed program "appears to be forerunner of rationing with local petroleum allocation bureaus set up by governors with apparent responsibilities but no authority." He said he believed the plan all but eliminates the current authority of states to use 10 per cent of fuel allocations to meet hardship needs.

Motor Carriers Director Deplores Blocking Roads

Omaha (AP) — The managing director of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Assn. says he deplores the blockading of superhighways in the East as a means of underscoring trucker dissatisfaction with soaring fuel prices and slower speeds.

Jim Preston of Lincoln said he feels most of the blockades have been formed "by so-called independent operators — the men who sell their services and are not company drivers."

The Nebraska Motor Carriers, he said, represent some 400 trucking firms in the state.

"Those people involved in the blockades are not speaking for the vast majority of the organized trucking industry," said Preston. "We would never use this method of trying to communicate our concern."

Preston estimated that only "15% to 20%" of the over-the-roadtruckers in America are independent owner-operators.

Meanwhile, the president of an Omaha-based trucking line which uses leased trucks said he knew of no blockades staged in Iowa or Nebraska.

And Bert Parker, secretary-treasurer of General Drivers Helpers Union Local 554, a Teamsters affiliate, said he knew of no plans to stage such blockades in Nebraska.

Local 554, he said, represents some 4,500 drivers and helpers in the state.

Preston said he could point to no specific case of illegal diesel fuel "price gouging" in Nebraska.

"A lot of truck-stop operators have gone to imported fuel to keep trucks rolling," Preston said, "and we know this is higher. One truck-stop operator told me recently he went to the Gulf area in search of additional product and the cheapest fuel he could find would have cost him 50¢ a gallon."

Union President E. F. Noble of Grand Island said union truckers were not involved in the roadblocks.

"Anything like this would come from the national union, and we're quite certain they will not participate in this," Noble said.

Senator Suggests Ft. Omaha As Site For Proposed Prison

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. John Cavanaugh III Friday said Omaha should be considered for the site of the porposed new medium-minimum security prison which would replace the Men's Reformatory in Lincoln.

And, the Omaha senator suggested, abandoned facilities at Ft. Omaha might provide an economical and ideal location for the institution.

Cavanaugh described his proposal as "a tentative suggestion."

"Rather than proceeding with the idea that a new medium-minimum secuirty prison should be constructed in Lincoln," Cavanuagh said, "I would suggest that we make extensive inquiry into the possibility of using existing facilities in either Lincoln or Omaha.

'Good Place To Start'

"And a good place to start with such an inquiry would be at the Ft. Omaha site."

It has housing, classroom space and adquate grounds and might be "an extremely appropriate type of facility" for such an institution, he said.

Cavanaugh said he believes "not much consideration was given to Omaha" in the development of the correctional reform package calling for the construction of $14 million or $15 million in capital improvements, apparently entirely in Lincoln.

The plan was revealed by Gov. J. James Exon last week at a citizens conference on corrections and generally endorsed by the Legislature's Judiciary Committee.

It provides for construction of a medium-minimum security prison, new housing at the Pentitentiary and development of a diagnostic and evaluation center for offenders.

Underused Facilities

Cavanaugh said he agrees that the diagnostic center probably should be located in Lincoln. Underused facilities at the Lincoln Regional Center have been mentioned as the probable site.

But Omaha might be the more appropriate site for the new prison, he said.

"Since Omaha has the largest criminal population in the state and the idea of correctional reform is to reintegrate offenders back into society, we should consider that it is difficult to integrate people into the labor and family setting of Omaha from Lincoln," Cavanaugh noted.

The state should concentrate on "providing the kind of facility that will get at the real problem of retraining and reintegrating offenders back into the community," he said.

'Not Many Consulted'

Cavanaugh said "not many Omaha people were consulted" in negotiations with Exon initiated by Judiciary Committee Chairman Roland Luedtke of Lincoln.

The 1973 Legislature approved the construction of two new medium-minimum secuirty prisons — one in Omaha and one in Lincoln — but then sustained Exon's subsequent veto of penal reform projects.

Now, Cavanaugh noted, the gubernatorial-committee agreement is to construct a single facility. With that, he does not argue.

"But we should consider the financial savings of possible use of existing facilities. We should consider sites in both Omaha and Lincoln, and we should explore all possibilities before expending a great deal of money on new construction."

Menuhins Remember Cather

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

An invitation described as "infinitely tempting" brought the musical talents of the Menuhin family to Lincoln Friday for a donated concert in honor of Willa Cather.

The American novelist, remembered as "Aunt Willa" by the three Menuhins, "more or less adopted us" as children, violinist Yehudi Menuhin explained.

It was a friendship that began in 1927 in Paris and lasted until Miss Cather's death in 1947. And it was the great respect for that friendship and for "Aunt Willa" that brought the Menuhins to her home state on the 100th anniversary of her birth.

The invitation "made possible this return into depths unconsidered for a long time," said Hephzibah, one of the two pianist sisters who shared the stage with Yehudi Friday evening for the special concert.

"I wish we knew her now," said Yaltah. "All of this happened when we were not so conscious."

Happy Memories

Although the concert at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln was the main event during the Menuhins' visit, the opportunity to make a first trip to Willa Cather's home obviously prompted more happy memories than the Menuhins thought possible.

During a discussion videotaped Friday morning for use during the live educational television broadcast of the concert, the conversation drifted back through many years of anecdotes about their friend, some reflection on what qualities she had shared with her young acquaintances and a bit of discussion on the legacy she left.

Miss Cather's New York flat, scene for many a winter day's reading of Shakespeare, "was always a place of great joy," Hephzibah remembered.

They recalled the walks in Central Park, the trips to plays and concerts, the Cather sense of connection between the pioneer spirit of the prairie and the aesthetic spirit of the world of great ideas.

"She looked the part," said Yehudi. "I've never before had contact with such an aesthetic person who at the same time was so rooted in the earth."

Expectations Fulfilled

The trip to Nebraska, he said later at a news conference, "fulfilled everything I had anticipated from it."

Although the Menuhins knew Miss Cather in Paris, New York and Los Angeles, Yehudi said they had "never known her against the background of Nebraska."

He said he had hoped to travel to her home in Red Cloud Saturday, but a commitment to play a new concerto Tuesday in Amsterdam made that impossible.

He had relished the thought, he said, of "coming to the still wholesome part of the country" and here "linking up with those enchanted parts of the world she described."

The occasion also provided a chance for the Menuhins to see each other, an opportunity the three rarely get, even though they all live in London.

'Very Precious'

"These moments are very precious to us," said Yehudi. "It's not very often we're together."

Even less common is a concert that features all three. They've not done that since 1966, when for Yehudi's 50th birthday they joined the London Philharmonic for a family concert in Festival Hall.

During the taping, Yehudi said he was impressed that Nebraska had "taken time off to pay tribute to a person of great quality."

"I love to come to a place that has a reverence for its own," he said.

In Willa Cather, he said, he found "a figure of one who represents a great part of this country — all that's right.

"She produced a synthesis of the various elements in this country — gave it a wholesomeness and strength that it needs today."

Gifted Menuhins Present Concert

By RICHARD GRACE

A concert of great prestige featuring three members of the musically gifted Menuhin family was presented in Kimball Hall on the University of Nebraska campus Friday evening.

Supported by the University Symphony Orchestra with Emanuel Wisnow conducting, Yehudi Menuhin performed Beethoven's Violin Concerto in D major, op. 61, while his two sisters, Hephzibah and Yaltah were heard in Mozart's Concerto in E flat major for two pianos.

The concert was presented as the Willa Cather Centennial Birthday Concert as part of this year's Willa Cather Centennial Festival and has a strong purpose for utilizing the talents of the Menuhins because Miss Cather was a close friend of the family. She known by the endearing name of "Aunt Willa" by Yehudi and his two younger sisters.

It is only fitting and proper that the two-piano concerto was performed by the Menuhin sisters, Hephzibah and Yaltah, because it probably was also a family affair for the composer and his sister, Nannerl.

The concerto composed in 1779 possesses the usual lovely Mozartian melodies along with a knowledgeable craftsmanship and a tightly knit part for the soloists. It was performed exquisitely by the Menuhins who graciously displayed their necessary pianistic abilities with ease and poise.

The Beethoven violin concerto is a true masterpiece in every sense of the word. Composed in 1806 for the violinist Franz Clement, it shows the composer at his best with great melodic invention and supreme organization of the concerto form.

Many have speculated about the success of the first performance by Clement because it seems that the solo part was read at sight without benefit of rehearsal.

There is, however, no doubt of Mr. Menuhin's familiarity with this work as he made his debut with this concerto at age 11. Menuhin's performance calls for all superlative adjectives as his interpretation of the concerto, his impeccable and dazzling technique and his stunning tone all convinced the appreciative audience of his inherent talent.

The student musicans of the University Orchestra also deserve accolades for their part in accompanying the two concertos as well as an excellent reading of Carl Maria von Weber's Overture of the opera, "Oberon".

The players were expertly rehearsed and conducted by Emanuel Wishnow. All who participated should be thoroughly proud of their endeavors.

The names of Menuhin and Cather have much meaning to the people of Lincoln for they attached great significance to this concert. On the first morning for public sale the concert was sold out in a few short hours.

Fortunately, for those who were unable to secure the priceless tickets and for many more outside the city there was a live performance on television.

Property Tax Equalization Law Should Be Given Try—Kessner

A 1971 law designed to equalize property tax support of schools when school districts cross county lines should be given a chance to see if it will work, an attorney told the Nebraska Supreme Court Friday.

Ted Kessner of Lincoln told the court in oral arguments, "I'm not here to assure you this (law) will work, but I think this court will take judicial notice of the fact the system (of equalizing property taxes when school districts cross county lines) we now have doesn't work."

The law in question gives the state tax commissioner authority to attempt to equalize dollar support for a school district between counties which assess property at differing rates.

The law was taken to court by Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Gillan who charged that the law was completely unworkable and could result in discriminatory practices.

"I'd be very much in favor of it if it would operate, but it cannot be done in the first place. There isn't any way of avoiding a lack of uniformity," Gillan said.

"The whole thing is vague and uncertain."

Calling the measure an innovative attempt to solve the perennial problem of property tax equalization, Kessner conceded the law could have its shortcomings in practice, but he said there's no way of knowing for certain until it is tried.

But to experiment with the law, Gillan said would produce chaos, because virtually every piece of residential property would have to be reassessed.

Complaint On Teacher Is Reported

The Oakland-Craig School Board is pushing for state disciplinary action against a high school teacher accused of using "foul language" in her classroom.

The State Board of Education has set a hearing on the complaint for Jan. 16 at the request of Ed Perry of Lincoln, an attorney for the district. Perry, on behalf of the local board, objected to findings contained in a report concerning the complaint prepared by the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission.

The contents of that report, as well as the name of the teacher and the circumstances surrounding the alleged "foul language," will remain confidential until the public hearing, Max Drier, director of the Professional Practices Commission, said.

Perry also declined to discuss the issues involved but indicated the board was "not satisfied" with the commission's report. Disciplinary action could include suspension or revocation of the instructor's teaching certificate.

Drier said the Oakland complaint is probably the first case involving alleged use of obscenities by teachers. The code of ethics for teachers speaks in broad terms and does not specifically mention obscenities as grounds for disciplinary action, Drier said.

Inmate's Parole Denied Due To Legal Action —Suit

An inmate of the Nebraska Penal Complex claimed in a suit filed in U. S. District Court Friday that he has been denied parole, work-release and furlough consideration because he is involved in legal actions against prison officials.

The suit, filed by inmate Robert Pilgrim against the Nebraska Board of Paroles, seeks court action to prohibit the board from interfering with what Pilgrim claims are his constitutional rights to petition the courts without punishment.

Pilgrim also asks the court to order the State Parole Board to give him a "correct, fair and impartial" parole hearing.

According to the suit, Pilgrim suscribed to three legal actions against complex officials and was told each time by Warden Charles Wolff that any inmate suscribing to these actions would not receive parole, work-release or furlough consideration.

On Aug. 31, 1973, according to the suit, parole board chairman John B. Greenholtz told Pilgrim he would not grant him parole or work-release as long as he had court action pending against his conviction.

The suit claims the officials' actions violate Pilgrim's constitutional rights and were designed with the "sole and only aim of punishing" him for taking legal action.

12-Mile Section Of I-80 Opened In W. Nebraska

Twelve miles of Interstate 80 in western Nebraska were opened to traffic Friday afternoon, according to Nebraska Department of Roads Director Tom Doyle.

The road runs between Potter and Kimball. Its completion leaves 30.3 miles on the east-west interstate highway unfinished, but Doyle said that stretch should be done by the fall of 1974.

The 12-mile stretch cost about $7.36 million. The entire I-80 in Nebraska will cost about $264 million. Construction began in 1958.

Ed Department Gets A Grant For $139,146

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — The U. S. Labor Department has announced a $139,146 grant to the Nebraska Education Department.

Federal Manpower officials said the money will be used to provide vocational training and enrolee allowances for 120 Nebraskans at the Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College at Norfolk.

The program calls for 45 persons to be trained as plumber's helpers, 45 in health services and 30 in appliance repair.

In addition, the department said it was alloting $15,650 to the out of school component of the neighborhood Youth Corps in Lincoln, that will enable the program to continue through Jan. 31 of next year.

The program provides basic education and jobs for 20 school dropouts.

State Cars Use 17% Less Gas, Report Reveals

State Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell released a report Friday that shows state cars used 17 per cent less gasoline than normal during the first two weeks after President Nixon's Nov. 7 speech.

Anderson obtained the gallonage figures from the Department of Roads.

Gov. J. James Exon ordered state cars to slow down to 50 miles per hour after the President's message.

He also urged elimination of nonessential auto trips.

Consolidation Could Draw Stiff Opposition

By The Associated Press

A spot check shows the Nebraska legislature could run into some stiff opposition if it tries to force some municipal power companies to either join rural electrical power districts or the Nebraska Public Power District.

State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, chairman of the legislative council executive board, sponsored a resolution which told the 16 communities to join a power district or face legislative action that would have the same effect.

Of 16 municipal power companies mentioned by Carpenter, at least four have already made plans to join a power district. Officials in six other communities expressed sentiments ranging from surprise to anger.

Ord Mayor Joe Ruzicka said it appeared legislators and the power districts were "trying to force us into it." Ruzicka said city officials "had it in the back of our minds" to join NPPD, but did not want to be forced into a decision. However, Ruzicka said that "it looks like there won't be a heck of a lot we can do about it."

In Alma, Mayor Al Schulke said the town would only join the NPPD grid if forced to do so by legislative action.

In Burwell, Mayor William Simpson said the town council will meet to consider the matter next week and added that "things are changing, we don't know what we're going to do.

Officials in Red Cloud, Cambridge and Oxford expressed surprise at the resolution and declined immediate comment.

Sutherland is in the final stages of arranging a contract with NPPD, and expects to sign the agreement Dec. 10.

Sargent has made arrangements to join the Custer Public Power District, and Franklin is joining the Franklin County Rural Public Power District.

Beaver city officials said they were in the planning stages of an agreement with NPPD.

Other communities that would be effected by the legislation mentioned by Carpenter include Randolph, Wayne, Wakefield, Kimball and Lyons.

Klassen Pledges Post Office Bins Will Be Emptied

Washington (UPI) — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen pledged Friday that all Christmas mail will move out of the post offices and their bins will be empty at quitting time on Christmas Eve despite growing problems caused by fuel shortages.

"We don't plan to get caught like we did last year," Klassen said "We are committed that on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, our post offices will be free of mail."

Klassen said that meant there may be late mail in the "pipelines" but there will be none left behind in the post offices themselves.

Hearing Is Set On Retirement

The Legislature's Retirement Systems Committee will hold a public hearing Dec. 17 on the desirability of creating a new retirement system for all state employes as well as a majority of the employes of its political subdivisions.

The committee said the hearing would be held in the Statehouse.

Space Scientists Plead For Mercy For Astrophysicist

Tucson, Ariz. (UPI) — More than 100 space scientists signed a letter to Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev pleading for the life of a Soviet astrophysicist who is reportedly imprisoned.

The scientists said Dr. Evgeni Levich, 25, was placed in a Siberian penal camp in May after his family applied for emigration to Israel.

The letter claimed Levich was suffering from severe chronic illness and he faced death in the harsh conditions of the labor camp.

Urbom Rules Mail To Stay Unopened

Nebraska Penal Complex officials have been ordered not to read mail from two attorneys addressed to their client, an inmate, and not to open that mail unless the client is present.

The order came from U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom in response to a motion in a court battle involving alleged discrimination against Indians at the complex.

Specifically, officials are not to read mail from attorney Roy S. Maher, of the Natural American Rights Fund of Boulder, Colo., or attorney Dennis E. Martin of McGrath, North, Nelson, Dwyer and O'Leary of Omaha.

Officials are not to open mail from the two attorneys without the presence of inmate Jesse P. Rouse, to whom the mail would be addressed.

Rouse is a party to a suit filed against Warden Charles Wolff in April, 1972, alleging discrimination in matters of religion, dress, hairstyles and employment practices.

Vermont Buys Short Railroad

Montpelier, Vt. (UPI) — Vermont bought a railroad for $1,265,000.

Samuel Pinsley, owner of the financially troubled St. Johnsburg and LaMoille County Railroad, signed all deeds to the 99-mile line to close the deal.

The Vermont Transportation Authority paid Pinsley $1,140,000 in addition to an earlier downpayment of $125,000.

Banks have put up $2 million in short term notes to pay for the purchase. Legislation will be required to establish a bond issue to pay back the loans.

Plainsmen Top Doane, 83-68

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Seward — Nebraska's Wesleyan's zone defense and good field goal shooting proved to be too much for Doane.

The Plainsmen broke open a tight game in the second half here Friday night in the fifth annual Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference's preseason basketball tournament to beat the Tigers, 83-68.

The win boosted unbeaten NWU, now 5-0, into the finals for the first time in four years. The loss dropped Doane to a 1-5 record.

Dr. Irv Peterson, who doesn't like to use a zone and rarely does, had his team do just that and the strategy worked.

The Tigers couldn't hit consistently from the outside and didn't get very many second shots.

The Plainsmen, however, handled the ball well to set up good shots and made a good percentage.

And when NWU missed from the field, the capitol city squad got more than its share of offensive rebounds for more chances to score.

The win is the Plainsmen's second straight over the Crete team as Peterson's club finished last year with a victory over Doane.

OU, Jays Win

Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Despite scoring contrasting victories, Oklahoma and Creighton are expected to provide a "real even contest" for Saturday night's championship of the Creighton Cage Classic.

"We had a good lesson in defensive basketball tonight," said Creighton coach Eddie Sutton, following the Bluejays' 55-42 triumph over defensive-minded Air Force in an opening round test. "Oklahoma has got great talent and it should be a real close game tomorrow.

"Their big guns present a lot of pressure for our kids. They're a great shooting club with exceptionally talented people up front," Sutton continued. "It should be a good match."

Oklahoma found itself in a scoring romp against San Diego State and breezed to an easy 92-57 victory in the evening's opening tilt.

The losers meet in the consolation finals at the Omaha Civic Auditorium at 7 p.m. while the winners compete at 9 p.m. in the first major college basketball tournament in Omaha history.

Although Creighton trailed early at 4-2, they quickly zoomed to a 14-4 lead with 11:45 to play in the first half and were never seriously pressed by the Falcons. Air Force, now 0-3, pulled to within 20-16 near the end of the first half, but Creighton tallied the next 10 points to record its third victory against no losses.

Pacing the Bluejays, who will meet Oklahoma for only the second time Saturday night, was Gene Harmon who produced 14 points and was the only Bluejay to hit double figures.

Jim Eken with a fine 6-for-10 field goal performance took game scoring honors with 16 points and was the mainstay in the Falcons' defensive effort.

Oklahoma, meanwhile, looked as impressive as expected in scampering past a San Diego State squad that was playing its first game of the season.

Although the Sooners led by as many as 42 points late in the game, OU coach Joe Ramsey lamented the 26 OU turnovers that transformed the second half into an error-filled carnival.

"I was particularly pleased with our defense, but our offense was hampered the number of turnovers we committed," said the first year Sooner coach. "If we played as we should have, we would have scored 120 points."

With four scorers in double figures, OU connected on 47 per cent of its field goal attempts.

Tom Holland's outside accuracy accounted for 20 points while sophomore 6-9 center Alvan Adams, not enjoying his usual offensive production, hit 14 points and junior college transfer Herb William added 12.

"Our biggest problem is in trying to be more consistent, we must do this to win games," Ramsey said. "I believe the loss to Jacksonville (a 66-64) last-second defeat Monday night at Norman) was a great aid to us. It helped discipline our team."

San Diego State, plagued by 34 turnovers, hit a paltry 29.4 per cent of its field goals in the first half to trail 44-25 at halftime. OU, now 2-1, contributed its highest point total of the season against an Aztec team that claimed a 63-61 victory two years ago in Lincoln against Nebraska.

Lincoln East Edges Knights

Mistakes Plentiful In Opener

Lincoln East and Southeast appeared to do their part along with the energy crisis theme "conserve" Friday night in the prep basketball season opener for both schools in Pershing Auditorium.

East won out, 36-34, in a game mared by early season errors and cold, cold shooting. The Spartans hit only 13 of 53 field goal attempts for almost 25 per cent. Southeast was better with 16 of 46 for 34 per cent.

East pulled out to an early first quarter lead, working in to big man, 6-8 senior center Curt Hedberg. The Spartans held a 12-6 edge at the end of the first eight minutes of play.

But in the second quarter Southeast's John Lohrberg sparked the Knights with two quick baskets. Then team captain Rick Reynolds took over, hitting four of five shots from the field in the closing minutes of the half to push Southeast into a 20-18 halftime lead.

Southeast assumed at least momentary control of the game in the third period. Randy Cipriano, son of Nebraska head basketball coach Joe Cipriano, led the Knights to a 28-20 lead with his passing and floor play.

The young Cipriano, however, had suffered a cut on his forehead in the first half, diving for a loose ball. The cut continued to reopen in the second half, finally requiring the junior guard to sit out much of the half and the last 3:30 of the game.

Meanwhile, coach Paul Forch made a few halftime changes, including pulling Hedberg out of the middle. The manuever worked in the fourth period as Hedberg pumped in 10 of East's final 14 points.

East, down 30-24 at the end of the three quarters, pounced on Southeast misques to even the game at 34-all with 3:48 remaining in the fourth period.

Southeast tried to stall the remaining minutes, working for the percentage shots, but made several passing errors. East finally managed to put one of its shots through the hoop, a turnaround jumper from the base of the free throw lane by Mark Ahlquist with just :37 remaining.

Southeast missed its shot at evening the game, but East's Jim Dennis was called for an offensive foul, giving the Knights the ball with :19 left. Tom McNaught, son of Southeast coach Wally McNaught missed a drive with :05 left.

The ball bounded out of bounds with Southeast to gain possession. Then McNaught tried again in heavy traffic, missing again when the final horn sounded.

Southeast had committed 22 turnovers in the game, compared to 17 for East. And East outscored the Knights from the foul line, hitting 10 of 14 to Southeast's 2 of 6.

Nashville, Tenn. — Hot-shooting Vanderbilt advanced to the finals of the Vanderbilt Classic with a 82-58 win over Nebraska here Friday night.

The Huskers knotted the score at 10-all with 15:02 left in the first half before Vanderbilt pulled ahead to stay.

Fouls and cold shooting from the field plagued the Huskers. Nebraska connected on only 38% of their field goal attempts, and was not given their first opportunity from the charity stripe until Mark Enright connected with 15 minutes remaining in the second half.

Jerry Fort and Ricky Marsh shared scoring honors for the Huskers with 16 points each. Mark Enright also reached double figures with 11.

Terry Compton topped the Commodores' scoring with 16 points.

Despite a height advantage, Nebraska was outrebounded by Vanderbilt, 52-43.

Nebraska turned the ball over 19 times, compared to eight miscues for Vanderbilt.

Nebraska meets Middle Tennessee, 63-59 loser to Tennessee State, in the consolation game at 7:00 p.m. tonight.

Nebraska's record dropped to 2-1. Vanderbilt improved to 3-0.

Chiefs' Dawson Hoping He Doesn't Play Today

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson is ready to play—but does't want to—when the Chiefs meet the Oakland Raiders Saturday in one of five key National Football League games this weekend.

Asked if he hoped to get in the game at Oakland, Dawson, who suffered an ankle injury Oct. 29, said: "No because that would mean we are behind, and I want to win."

Oakland, 7-4-1, goes into the game with a slght lead in the American Conference Western Division over Kansas City and Denver, tied for second at 6-4-2.

The other key games are on Sunday. Washington, 9-3, is at Dallas 8-4, in a first-place battle in the National Conference East. Cleveland, 7-3-2, and Cincinnati, 8-4, tied with Pittsburgh for first in the AFC Central, battle at Cincinnati. Pittsburgh, 8-4, is home against Houston, while Denver is at San Diego.

Mike Livingston will again start at quarterback for Kansas City, which will be without veteran offensive tackle Jim Tyrer, out with a shoulder injury after playing in 179 consecutive games. Both clubs have outstanding defenses, but the Raiders, quarterbacked by Ken Stabler, also lead the AFC in team offense.

Quarterback Bill Kilmer of Washington got out of the hospital Friday and may play against Dallasn. Kilmer suffered a sprained left ankle against the Giants last Sunday and was hospitalized with stomach cramps last Tuesday. The Redskins' other quarterback, Sonny Jurgensen, completed 11 straight passes in the comeback win over Giants. Roger Staubach will start for Dallas, which lost the division title to the Redskins last year.

Cincinnati will throw a tough defense, which shut out Minnesota last Sunday, and the running of Essex Johnson and Booby Clark into its key battle against Cleveland, which will count heavily on the passing of quarterback Mike Phipps and the running of steadily improving rookie Greg Pruitt.

Pittsburgh and Denver should have tne easiest times among the clubs battling for division titles. Regular quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who returned against Miami last Monday night, will start for the Steelers, who have lost three straight and need victories in final two games for at least a wild-card spot in the playoffs. Houston figures to have another long afternoon against the solid Pittsburgh defense.

Denver, led by quarterback Charley Johnson, who heads the AFC with 17 touchdown passes, needs a victory for its first winning season ever and can't afford to look ahead to Oakland next week. Like Houston, San Diego figures to have a long afternoon against a stingy defense.

Minnesota will be coming off its first shutout in 162 games and will be getting ready for the playoffs against Green Bay. Miami also will be thinking of playoffs as it meets Baltimore. The New York-Philadelphia game could be a real passing fancy, with Joe Namath throwing for the Jets and Roman Gabriel hurling for the Eagles.

O.J. Simpson will continue to chase Jim Brown's season rushing record of 1,863 yards—he needs 280 — and Buffalo will still be chasing a dim chance at a wild-card playoff spot against New England. Chicago at Detroit is one of the NFL traditional rivalries, in which Detroit has won 10 of the last 11 games. Atlanta will need to avoid a second straight upset, against St. Louis, to stay in the NFC's wild-card battle.

New Orleans will be trying to tie San Francisco for third place and avenge a 40-0 loss earlier in the season. Los Angeles will be another team preparing for the playoffs, while the Giants will be trying to add a little luster to a disappointing season.

Big 8 Delays Action On OU Television Ban

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Gov. David Hall's office was advised Friday the Big Eight Conference will take no action at its current meeting on a request to reconsider a twoyear television ban on the Oklahoma football team but will consider the matter at its January meeting.

Hall's news secretary, Ed Hardy, said Ken Jones called from the Big Eight office in Kansas City to say no action was taken, because two athletic directors —Eddie Crowder of Colorado and Wade Walker of Oklahoma —were absent when Hall appeared before conference officials Thursday.

"Mr. Jones advised the governor's request to reconsider the ban will be taken up at the January meeting," Hardy said.

NSAA Will Not Cancel Activities

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

The Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) Board of Control Friday declared it is willing to follow any and all measures to ease the energy crisis.

But the group, meeting in Lincoln, apparently has received no directives from any official source and therefore isn't ready to cancel activities to keep in line with recent action taken by "neighbors" Iowa and Kansas.

"We feel that all our activities (speech, music, debate, athletics) are a very integral part of our educational program. We do not feel that it is fair to deprive our youth of their educational programs when theatres are still operating as well as major college football, professional basketball and football and bowl games," NSAA executive secretary Les Chamberlin said.

"Although we do not feel it would be fair to cut off our youth's educational programs when others are allowed to continue," Chamberlin added, "we will cooperate in every way possible to curtail activities if there is one central organization that will call all interested parties together."

So far, the NSAA and Nebraska Department of Education have been conspicously absent from state governmental energy crisis directives. The exclusion was termed a "major oversight" by one NSAA official, who added: "I would think we would have some valuable input for the overall situation."

"The board feels it's too late to cancel holiday tournaments. But we will not sanction any new tournaments and would encourage conferences holding them to get together and agree not to hold them," Chamberlin said.

"If the crisis continues," he added, "then we will very seriously consider not permitting any holiday tournaments next year and will consider asking our schools to reduce the number of games and activities. We are also suggesting no further expansion of activities until the crisis is over."

"We also recommend that all junior high athletics below the ninth grade be kept on an intramural basis," said Chamberlin, who added the NSAA "will suggest to schools that they form car pools for parents and students attending games and ask them to consider chartering commercial buses for games rather than taking individual cars."

State high school athletic associations in both Iowa and Kansas have voted to eliminate athletic competition from Dec. 22 to Dec. 30. Kansas, however, told its member schools they would have the option to reschedule events affected in that time span.

The NSAA decided not to act on moving state basketball and wrestling tournaments up a day to avoid Sunday gas station closings, according to Chamberlin.

"We'll wait until we move closer to those dates (late February, mid-March) before making a decision," he said. "We've already investigated our facilities — the NU Coliseum, Pershing Auditorium, Lincoln High and East High — so that if we do change, there will be no problem."

Positive Thinking Earns Palmyra Victory, 55-51

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Bennet — Even Larry Horstman may be tiring from his own power of positive thinking campaign. But it's paying off.

The three-year Palmyra basketball coach saw signs of confidence surface here Friday night after watching his Panthers post an impressive 55-51 season opening win over scrappy Falls City Sacred Heart.

"I've been telling these players since last March after we lost at district that we could beat caliber teams," related Horstman.

"The community and I believe it. We've been building these kids up to believe it, too. In fact, we've almost built them up too much to the point where they're over-confident," said Horstman.

If the towering Panthers were over-confident, it didn't last long against Sacred Heart, which returned most of its fire-power from last season's 16-4 team.

Despite at a decided height disadvantage, Sacred Heart hustled from start to finish and fouled out two of its leading players — Joe Fleskoski and Mark May — while trying to compensate for its lack of height.

"They're as fiesty and scrappy a team as we're likely to play all season," observed Horstman. "We felt this would be one of our toughest games."

For a while, it appeared Palmyra had the contest comfortably in command. The Panthers twice owned 12-point spreads before a Sacred Heart flurry closed to within 42-35 at the third quarter break.

The win could have been costly. Palmyra lost two starters to injuries in the physical battle. Doug Cheney dislocated a finger in the first quarter and 6-5 senior Marty Beecham injured a foot and exited in the third quarter.

But 6-6 Randy Kempkes compensated for their losses with 20 points and a solid rebounding effort. He also contributed four crucial blocked shots in a frantic fourth quarter wind-up.

Applications for tickets are still being accepted. A few additional seats, over the original allotment of 15,000, may yet be given Nebraska by Cotton Bowl officials.

Sears Building Will Be Renovated

The old Sears and Cengas buildings are to undergo a major rejuvenation that will bring a multi-million dollar, multi-purpose commercial facility to downtown Lincoln.

Two prominent Lincoln business families, the Simons and the Kingerys, connected with Ben Simon & Sons clothing stores and Kingery Construction Co., respectively, have purchased the 50-year-old buildings with Hawthorne Realty Group, Inc., a Chicago-based company.

Joe Beale, president of Hawthorne Group Realty, was in Lincoln for the official announcement.

The approximate sale price was $870,000 according to revenue stamps on a deed recorded Friday in the Lancaster County Register of Deeds office.

Renovation of the seven-story building will be implemented in three phases over a ten-year period, it was announced Friday.

Built in 1917

Built in 1917, the structure was first occupied by the Rudge and Guenzel department store which sold the retail operation to Allied Stores in 1929.

Tentative plans call for a shopping plaza arrangement with a wide mall and retail stores, restaurants, boutiques and a financial institution on the first three floors.

Robert Simon, president of Ben Simon & Sons, said that by late spring he would know whether the family retail business, now at 1215 O, would be a tenant in the new building. "We are naturally looking at it," he said, but added that no lease has been signed.

Simon's downtown building is presently owned by Miller & Paine and the Webster Estate. Both leases run out this spring, but can be renegotiated, according to Simon.

Upper 4 Floors

Consumer-oriented offices are expected to occupy the upper four floors of the new complex.

Simon suggested that the 25,000 sq. feet of space on each floor might be used by a large group of doctors sharing common laboratory facilities or by several lawyers with a joint law library. He indicated that the large floor plan would call for some kind of "specialty" tenants.

Simon noted that the developers are presently interviewing nationaly-known architectural firms to do the initial design. "There's no end to the people who want to design this kind of structure," he said, adding that similar complexes exist in only three places in the U.S.

A local architecture firm and Kingery Construction Co. will complete the construction of the project.

Original financing for the facility is being coordinated by the National Bank of Commerce, which is temporarily headquartered in the Sears building until the bank's new building is constructed.

Phase I of the development calls for renovating the exterior of the building to provide maximum use and convenience while maintaining the original distinctive beauty, tradition and design. Much of this can be done while NBC is in the building.

Under Phase II the entire retail complex would be completed and become operative within six to 12 months after NBC vacates the building.

Phase III would involve the completion of the upper floors for office space, restaurants or other facilities.

Simon expressed his concern about the impact of the center on the traffic volume downtown and the parking situation.

Even if the proposed City Services complex provides parking facilities, Simon feels these might not be adequate.

The City Services building will be located across 12th St. and Simon envisions a covered walkway over the street from the parking facilities to the 2nd floor shopping level of the new complex.

Republicans To Study State Aid To Schools

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Republican state central committee Friday night rejected a proposal that it endorse continued or increased state aid to public schools, then decided to submit the issue to further study.

The proposed endorsement of school aid, recommended by the GOP legislative committee and cleared by the state executive committee, fell on an 18-25 vote.

But a later motion from Arlen Beam of Lincoln to give the matter further study was approved on a voice vote.

In other action, Republicans approved a $112,000 operating budget for 1974, and set their sights on a $104,500 campaign budget for their 1974 nominees for state and national office.

Funds Divided

If the funds are raised, $50,000 would be allocated to the governor-lieutenant governor team, $30,000 divided among the three congressional nominees and $20,000 split among four Statehouse (attorney general, auditor, treasurer and secretary of state) nominees.

Three thousand dollars was allocated for legislative contests, and $1,500 set aside for two races for the Public Service Commission.

Monroe Usher Jr. of Lincoln, who presented the budget proposal, warned that Statehouse nominees are "no longer assured of being elected because they are Republicans."

Usher said he believes the budgeted campaign funds can be raised.

The proposal on state aid to schools was rejected after brief debate which centered on fears that infusion of more state sales and income tax dollars into school districts would result in further loss of local control.

Property Taxes

But Beam later urged the committee to consider how such funds help hold down, or reduce, local property taxes.

"We don't want to appear negative" toward property tax relief, he cautioned.

"It would be very bad for the Republican Party to be opposed (to a program which) gives property owners a great deal of relief," former GOP State Chairman Lorraine Orr of North Platte agreed.

At the request of Dr. Karen Dinsmore of Lincoln, the legislative committee was also directed to study the level of state support for the University of Nebraska.

"It is a very, very bad situation," she said.

'Also Education'

"I think it is terrific the way we back our football team, but we should also back excellence in education. The kids are the ones who are really being hurt."

Accepting recommendations from the legislative committee, headed by Bill Johnston of Lincoln, the GOP reaffirmed its support for a partisan legislature, urged "improved" highway development, opposed legislation to lift the ban on agency shop labor contracts, called for full disclosure of campaign financing and endorsed the proposed constitutional amendment to increase the salaries of state senators.

National Committeeman Richard Herman of Omaha announced that he has written Democratic Gov. J. James Exon urging him to appoint a committee to study the possibility of state legislation providing for public financing of election campaigns.

The next central committee meeting was tentatively scheduled for Feb. 16.

Public Confidence Is Termed 'Fragile, Wavering Commodity'

By H. J. CUMMINS
Star Staff Writer

Newspapers and President Nixon know public confidence is a "fragile and wavering commodity," Ralph M. Otwell, national president of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, told members of the Nebraska chapter of the society at their meeting Friday night.

That is why the Chicago Sun-Times, of which Otwell is managing editor, has called for the impeachment of President Nixon. And why journalism professionals at the society's convention in mid-November in Buffalo, N.Y., had to respond with the organizational revisions that they did.

The Sun-Times reversed its earlier support of President Nixon because troubles on Wall Street and truck blockades on national highways portended to the paper's editors a possible state of anarchy, Otwell said.

Disruption

The nation was indicating its dislike of a president and his administration, he said, in a way disruptive of daily life. The paper had fought impeachment proposals because it feared they would cause just that disruption, Otwell said. So the staff decided the best way to settle the country would be impeachment proceedings, when all the facts would be brought out before the people, he said.

But he said the press also has much to worry about in the area of public trust.

Despite a rise in public trust for print and TV journalism protrayed in a Harris poll this week, the public still gave garbage collectors a higher vote of confidence than it gave newsmen, he said.

Low credibility decreases the news media's effectiveness, he said, but more importantly, it "creates the climate for repressive measures by politicians and judges that further hamper the press."

Recent Events

Within the last few months, Otwell said, the Supreme Court upheld the first federal contempt of court sentence for newsmen in Baton Rouge, La., who reported what happened in open court, the Alabama legislature passed a law requiring reporters to disclose their income before covering government, and a federal judge in Dallas prohibited Vietnam veterans from talking to members of the press.

"Vigilence and professionalism are needed as much today as ever," he said.

And he said the organizational changes made during the Buffalo convention give the society average with which to support and convey the responsibility and professionalism in contemporary American press.

The Nebraska chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, elected for 1974: Gene Kelly, president; Gwen Nobbe, vice president for membership; Don Wright, vice president for programs; Larry Walklin, secretary; Dick Holman, treasurer; and Jim Raglin, member-at-large.

Earlier, the government announced that with the start of rationing, the Sunday pleasure-driving ban that has been enforced for five consecutive weeks would be abandoned.

Secret Service Officers Still Protect Agnew

Washington (AP) — Secret Service protection for former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is continuing at the direction of President Nixon for an indefinite period, the White House said Friday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the Secret Service will decide when the protection ends.

Warren said that Nixon authorized the protection for "an indefinite period," but that "it will be terminated and it will not be a secret when it is."

She will begin selecting her staff, including news editor and managing editor, next week.

House Votes To Increase Pension For Retired Federal Civil Servants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted 270 to 95 Friday to hike payments for many retired federal civil servants and their survivors at a total cost of $2.2 billion over 30 years.

The Nixon administration opposed the legislation. The Senate has passed a similar measure. Although the original House version was revised prior to passage so it would match figures in the Senate-passed measure, the House sent the bill back to the Senate.

However, House sponsors said they look for it to win final Senate approval without the need for a congressional compromise-seeking conference.

The bill would do two major things:

—Set a minimum civil service retirement annuity benefit equal to the minimum benefit under the Social Security program, and let it rise in the future through automatic cost-of-living adjustments in the Social Security law.

—Provide that civil servants who retired before Oct. 20, 1969, would get a flat annual increase of $240 in their annuity or $132 for their surviving spouse.

About 15 per cent of the current civil service pension beneficiaries get less than the present minimum Social Security benefit, including 65,000 retired persons and 75,000 surviving spouses — mostly widows — and 5,000 children.

Those who draw Social Security benefits would have no entitlement under the legislation.

Hot Line To Be Switched To Satellite

Moscow (AP) — The hot line linking the White House and the Kremlin will switch from radio to satellite channels next fall to provide smoother communications, U.S. officials said Friday.

The hot line — actually two circuits linked by teleprinters — was set up 10 years ago to provide a quick communication channel between the superpowers in case of the accidental launching of nuclear missiles or any other crucial international emergency.

For the past two weeks, U.S. and Soviet delegations have been working out technical details for a switchover from present radio and cable links for the hot line to more trouble-free, secure satellite channels.

The present hot line was cut once about two years ago by a Finnish farmer who accidentally plowed through one of the circuits have been the prey of atmospheric conditions, which garbled radio transmissions.

The two circuits carrying the hot line have, however, never been out of commission at once, officials said.

Hot line communications will ride on Soviet Molniya and U.S. Intelsat satellites, when receiving stations are set up in the two countries. A Molniya receiving station will be built at Ft. Detrich, Md., and an Intelsat station near Moscow.

Spain Cuts Fuel Use

Man Reported Missing From U.S. 34 Mishap

A man was missing from the scene of a two-car accident Tuesday night at Highway 34 and the North Gate to the Lincoln Air Park, sheriff's deputies said.

Rodney Welch, 22, of Lincoln, was treated for a cut to his left eye and released from Lincoln General Hospital. he and John Welch 24, 1321 S. 27th, were riding with Dennis Stege in a pickup truck eastbound on Highway 34.

Stege, 22, lives at 848 Benton. He suffered no injuries. John Welch was unconscious when deputies arrived at the scene, the sheriff's office said, but was released without treatment from the hospital.

A car registered in the name of Ernest Frain, 6137 Logan, was northbound on the North Gate road. The Frain car apparently struck the side of the pickup, according to sheriff's deputies. The deputies said the driver of the car was seen walking away from the scene of the accident, and they were unsure about his identity or whereabouts.

Ex-Nixon Aide Gets Contract

Washington (AP) — A former $36,000-a-year special assistant to President Nixon has received an $836,651 Defense Department contract earmarked for the disadvantaged.

Robert J. Brown, former special assistant for minority affairs, also applied for a second contract but was turned down.

The contract prompted House Banking Committee investigator Curtis Prins to remark that he didn't think anyone who had worked for a high salary in the White House was disadvantaged.

The Small Business Administration, which negotiated the contract for the Defense Department, defended its action.

"Because Brown is who he is and who he was, this particular contract was gone over from stem to stern," said Randall Woods, assistant SBA commissioner for public affairs.

"This contract was awarded long after Bob Brown left the White House," Woods added. "There was an unusual amount of documentation. It definitely is legitimate from top to bottom."

Brown could not be reached for comment.

The contract award stems from the program authorizing the SBA to act as subcontractor for the rest of the government in an effort to funnel federal dollars to disadvantaged and monority firms. The SBA certifies firms as eligible for the program and then finds them contracts, which are awarded on a non-competitive basis.

Last July, a firm owned 50 per cent by Brown was awarded a $836,651 Defense Department contract to operate mess halls at El Toro Marine Base in southern California.

The firm, Cade Services Inc. of Santa Ana, Calif., is co-owned by Harrison J. Cades.

On Aug. 20, the SBA said, Brown made an "informal inquiry" on behalf of Cade Services to get another Defense Department food services contract at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

This was turned down Sept. 1, Woods said, because "we wanted to see how much success he had on performing under the original contract."

The SBA's Atlanta regional office last month approved the business plan submitted by Brown's consulting firm, B&C Associates, and certified it eligible for business development nonbid contracts, the SBA said.

While Brown was in the White House, the SBA detailed to him Paul A. Laurakas, an SBA minority business development specialist. Soon after Brown quit in February, Lavrakas also left government service. He now works for Brown's consulting firm, SBA sources said.

Brown was the highest ranked black in the White House during Nixon's first term. He left in February.

Kelley Defends Attacks On 'New Left'

Washington (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley Friday defended a "counter-intelligence" operation the late Director J. Edgar Hoover set up in the late 1960s to "expos" and "neutralize" New Left extremist activities.

Kelley said that while the countermoves against the New Left activists may be subject to criticism now that "peace" has returned, the government must have some way to "meet the challenge of those who use any means to foment revolution."

"While such a counter-intelligence program may not be the answer there must be some effective way for the federal government to meet the challenge . . ." he said.

Kelley revealed he and acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork have discussed the situation and agreed that a current evaluation of the FBI's reaction to national securty emergencies should continue.

The FBI made public Hoover's memos about the project after Bork decided not to appeal a U.S. District Court ruling that NBC newsman Carl Stern was entitled to see the memos under the 1966 Freedom of Information Act.

One memo issued on May 10, 1968, set up the project called "Cointelpro — New Left" and the other, dated April 28, 1971, terminated the project without explanation. The FBI did not make public any of the information gathered under the project.

Kelley said he wanted to explain Hoover's project further "because of the misconceptions, misapprehensions and false conclusions" that could be drawn from the partial disclosure.

He reviewed incidents of the "atmosphere of lawlessness" — more than 300 acts of arson, nine persons killed and almost 600 injured on college campuses and threats to sabotage power and water supplies and to disrupt transportation and communications.

He said he shared the public's "deep concern about the citizen's right to privacy and preservation of all rights gather under the Constitution . . ." But he said the late 1960s were a time when "a hardcore revolutionary movement which came to be known as the 'New Left' set out, in its own words, to bring the government to its knees through the use of force and violence."

American Exports To Soviet Union Almost Tripled

©The New York Times

Moscow — The United States moved within range of becoming the Soviet Union's largest Western trading partner this year with more than $1.2 billion in two-way trade during the first ten months of 1973.

The American embassy here disclosed that American exports to the Soviet Union nearly tripled over last year's figures and even the modest level of Soviet exports to the United States had doubled.

Simultaneoulsy, the Soviet press, which has long hailed the benefits of expanded trade, sharply attacked Sen. Richard D. Dchweiker, R-PA., for introducing a bill that would halt Soviet-American trade until the Arab states canceled their oil embargo against the United States.

"What kind of connection can the initiators of the bill see between the oil embargo and Soviet-American trade?" demanded the government newspaper, Izvestia. "None at all. But the objective of Sen. Schweiker and his sympathizers is very precise — to hinder development of Soviet-American trade."

The soviet press had no public comment Friday on the nomination of Walter J. Stoessel Jr., assistant secretary of state for European affairs, to be the new American ambassador in Moscow, but privately well-placed Soviet officials expressed their pleasure at the appointment.

Stoessel, who served here from 1947 to 1949 and again from 1963 to 1965, was praised by Soviet officials as a knowledgeable and experienced professional diplomat who had maintained good personal relations with the soviet government.

In 1972, the United States was the Soviet Union's sixth largest free world trading partner, behind West Germany, Japan, Finland, Britain and France.

But already in the first 10 months of this year, the total of $1.1 billion in American exports to the Soviet Union and $160 million in Soviet exports to the United States has topped West Germany's record performance of $1 billion of two-way trade a year ago.

If the level of Soviet-American trade reaches a total of $1.5 billion this year, as both Soviet and American officials have predicted, it could well be enough to put America ahead of both West Germany and Japan.

Pope To Travel Through Rome In A Carriage

Vatican City (UPI) — Pope Paul VI will respect a ban on private automobile travel Saturday by riding through Rome in a horse and carriage to celebrate the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, the Vatican said.

The Vatican said the pontiff would be accompanied by several more horse-drawn carriages and have an escort of motorcycle police for the trip to Piazza di Spagna.

Douglas' Wife Investigating 'Human Needs'

Yakima, Wash. (AP) — Cathy Douglas, wife of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, is trying to find out which roles of men and women are dictated by biology and which by society.

"If we can understand real human needs, the laws can be adjusted to meet those needs so we will have a more orderly and productive society," said Mrs. Douglas, a 29-year-old lawyer, in a telephone interview Thursday.

She is organizing the study as chairwoman of the International Institute of Sexidentity.

Agribusiness Club Names Swanson Head

Five Lincoln men were named officers of the Nebraska Agribusiness Club this week.

Burdette Swanson of the Federal Land Bank was named president of the organization.

The club named two vice presidents, Bob Bishop of the Nebraska Farmer and Douglas Murfield of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Ronald Radenz of the statistical office was named Treasurer and Duane Olson, a staff member of the UNL Department of Agricultural Economics was named secretary.

The organization made up of men and women from all parts of the state with an interest in agriculture and holds monthly meetings featuring programs involving the latest developments in the field of agriculture.

Comet Not Disintegrating

Cambridge, Mass. (AP) — Scientists deny reports that the comet Kohoutek is disintegrating. "Entirely untrue," says the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here.

Dr. William A. Deutschman, who heads the Smithsonian's Kohoutek observation program, said Friday that reports the comet had disintegrated or was disintegrating are unfounded.

"We heard reports last Sunday from some amateur astronomers that the comet had disappeared," Deutschman said, "but we checked it out and it's still there. We have been getting reports from our field stations all week and they confirm that it's still there.

"And as for the comet beginning to disintegrate, our cameras just don't show anything like this," he added.

The Smithsonian is the clearing house for all world observations of Kohoutek and has access to the best and latest information on the comet, Deutschman said.

Two observatories in Europe reportedly lost sight of the approaching comet, said Ed Mason, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Spaceflight Center.

However, Mason said, as late as Friday morning, the comet was sighted from the Johnson Space Center in Houston, Tex., and the Kitt Peak observatory in Arizona.

Commenting on the recurring loss of Kohoutek, Mason said: "What we have here is what we had in England last week. In the northern latitudes, the comet is seen low on the horizon and it is rather easy to lose."

Dr. Guido Munch, chairman of the comet committee at California Institute of Technology's observatory, said the comet's tail goes through a number of changes each day, including small explosions among the dust and gas particles. But the comet is doing well, he said.

The comet was discovered last March 7 by Czech-born Dr. Lubos Kohoutek at Hamburg, West Germany.

Disregard For Rural U.S. Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate rural development subcommittee Friday blasted the administration for "utter disregard for rural needs" in impounding for the second consecutive year congressional appropriations for water and sewer grants.

The $150-million appropriation carried with it a direct statement of congressional intent that it be spent and not impounded. House and Senate agriculture committee members parried all summer with Agriculture Department and other officials over whether it would again be impounded.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, protested the withholding of the funds in a telegram to Rov Ash, director of the White House's Office of Management and Budget..

USDA appropriations for this fiscal year were not passed until October, and it was not until last week that OMB sent the department its allocations — that is, what appropriations it will allow for USDA programs.

USDA officials would not confirm last week's impoundment reports — $100 million of a $175 million rural conservation program appropriation also reportedly was cut — because Secretary Earl L. Butz was out of town. Thursday's reports were basically confirmed, however.

Clark said the OMB's reasons apparently involve the availability of other funds for rural water and sewer projects, an explanation he called "a gross distortion of the facts."

"Many rural communities are desparately in need of these funds — often to merely correct existing health hazards," Clark said. "It is unconscionable that funds should not be provided because of some warped sense of economy."

Gurney Aware Of Illegal Slush Fund, Aide Claims

Orlando, Fla. (UPI) — A former aide accused of raising an illegal, unreported slush fund of more than $100,000 for Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., said Friday Gurney and other persons knew about it.

Larry Williams, a central figure in the scandal surrounding the senior Florida senator, was asked about Gurney's Thursday night statement that Gurney didn't know Williams was raising funds for him.

"The senator is wrong and the senator knows he is wrong, and there are others in this city who know better," he said.

"I don't know where their conscience is that they can allow some of these things to go without taking some sort of share in it."

Williams said he thought Gurney skirted the question of how Williams could have used Gurney's name to collect money if Williams was not representing the senator.

"There is no way I could give an image and pose as a freelance fund raiser and raise that kind of money without people knowing in fact that I worked for Sen. Gurney," Williams said.

"He appeals to the voters of Florida and I think I would say that in the long run that is who will get to decide and that's where it ought to be, and with this, let all the facts come out."

S. Viet Forces Recapture City, Clear Key Road

Saigon (AP) — South Vietnamese forces recaptured Kien Duc, the first district town lost since the January cease-fire, and cleared a key road junction for convoys, the military command said Friday.

In neighboring Cambodia the government withdrew from a garrison on Highway 4 after a week-long attack by insurgent forces. The rebels now occupy a five-mile stretch of the highway, Phnom Penh's link to the sea, starting about 36 miles west of the capital.

Kien Duc had fallen only three days earlier to tank-backed North Vietnamese forces. First estimates that a force of 8,000 to 10,000 men was involved in the Communist attack on Kien Duc were later scaled down to perhaps 800 to 1,000 men.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 12-8
